COURT RULING ON ELECTION IN NEW YORK

Judges May Decide If Mayor to Be Chosen in November Next Or 1933

Following Walker's Resignation, J. V. McKee Is Acting As Mayor

Walker Inquiry Formally Ended

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 2.—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt formally and officially ended the Walker inquiry hearing to-day before a gallery of his legal advisers, reporters and a few surprised tourists who had wandered into the "Hall of Governors."

New York, Sept. 2.—Affairs of New York were being directed to-day by an acting mayor, Joseph V. McKee, who stepped up from the post of president of the board of aldermen.

Certification that a vacancy exists in the post of mayor and should be filled at the next general election, November 8, was sent to the board of elections to-day by City Clerk Michael J. Cruise. The vacancy occurred with the resignation of Mayor James J. Walker yesterday evening.

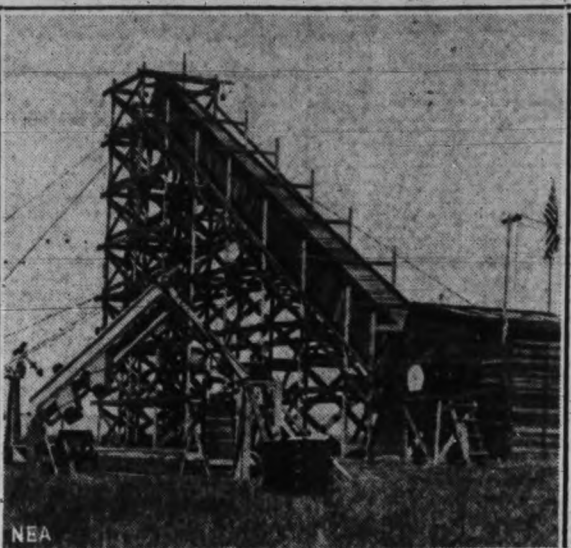

The communication of the city clerk to the board of elections was sent while political leaders were predicting the situation would have to be ironed out in the courts, some holding a new mayor could not be elected until the next regular municipal election in November, 1933, and others insisting Mr. Walker's unexpired term must be filled at the next general election.

BITTER WORDS
New York, Sept. 2.—With James J. Walker no longer mayor of New York, the bitter words of his "au revoir" were reiterated to-day.

Looking like a wrath of the former sparring "Jimmie," Walker handed in his resignation yesterday evening while Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was preparing to call him again to-day for another session of his long hearing on charges seeking his removal from office. Joseph V. McKee, president of the board of aldermen, automatically became mayor.

Almost as emotional as his abrupt resignation and his more-than-a-burnt that he would seek vindication by run- (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Astronomers Were There But Saw Little Of Eclipse

At Limerick, Maine, the United States Naval Observatory expedition had the sixty-five-foot camera pictured above, but clouds so interfered with observation of the solar eclipse last Wednesday afternoon that it is reported no results of value to science were achieved by the photographs.

Twelve Plates Taken Last Wednesday at Acton Vale, Que., Clearer Than Any Taken in New England States

Hamilton, Ont., Sept. 2.—"Astounding" results have rewarded a band of scientists who studied the solar eclipse at Acton Vale, Que., Wednesday afternoon. It was announced here to-day. After working unceasingly for many hours on the combined computations of their total eclipse data, it was announced the results were far beyond expectations.

TWELVE PLATES
Twelve astonishingly clear plates recording totality were exhibited by Gen. R. B. Marsh, when he stepped from the dark room, where he had worked alone at the delicate developing process yesterday evening. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

James Z. Flaster, Chief Paramount Sound Engineer, Here To-day With Bride

Says Number of Independent Studios in California Supply Pictures to Paramount

Among travelers arriving in Victoria by the Ss. Ruth Alexander from Southern California early to-day were Mr. and Mrs. James Z. Flaster of Los Angeles. They were recently married, and are here on their honeymoon tour.

Mr. Flaster is chief recording engineer with Paramount Corporation. While he had no personal knowledge of any contract that might have been entered into between Paramount and Commonwealth Productions, Mr. Flaster admitted that it was quite feasible for such stars as Reginald Penny and Evelyn Brent to come to Victoria from Hollywood to appear in productions planned here.

Five Germans Condemned to Death Have Sentences Changed to Life

While Decision Being Made, Papen Challenged By Hitler to Hold Election

Associated Press
Berlin, Sept. 2.—The five fascists who were condemned to death at Beuthen last week on a charge of murdering a Communist during a political brawl received a commutation to life imprisonment when the federal commissioner of Prussia reviewed their case to-day.

Chancellor Franz von Papen presided at the conference at which it was decided to show mercy to the men, who were condemned under the emergency decree of August 9 providing capital punishment for crimes of political violence.

The men were charged with the murder of a Communist. During the trial it was established the crime was committed only an hour and a half after the emergency decree became effective.

With that fact in mind, the commissioners decided to yield to the petitions for clemency which had been submitted by numerous organizations.

ATTACKED BY HITLERITES
Possibly they were influenced also by the consideration that Adolf Hitler's National Socialists had been stirred by the sentences to vehement attacks on the law and the government.

It was indicated the Prussian Government would permit a rehearing of the case. This means it will not come before the emergency "speed court" which condemned the men, but before a regular court, with trial by jury.

Associated Press
Tokyo, Sept. 2.—The Hengo news agency to-day reported 306 Chinese bandits had been killed in a two-hour battle with Japanese troops at Anta, northwest of Harbin.

This fight took place yesterday, the dispatch said.

The Japanese lost four killed and five wounded, but reported the bandits had been dispersed to the south.

LIVED LIFE OF NATIVES

Clark Irvine Returns From South Seas to Lecture on Polynesian Customs

Living with the natives of Manus, Samoa, eating their food and adopting their scanty dress, has been the experience of Clark Irvine, newspaperman and travel lecturer, who arrived in the city to-day aboard Empress of Russia from Honolulu.

Since his companionship with the Samoan chiefs, Mr. Irvine met an Australian girl and made her his wife. Mrs. Irvine likes the roaming life followed by her husband and, wherever he may travel in the future, she intends to accompany him.

Mr. Irvine was on the staff of The Honolulu Advertiser and he has done a lot of free lance. He is now writing a book entitled "Roaming in the South Seas."

In recalling his travels, Mr. Irvine related how he wore nothing but the "lava-lava," the apron worn by the Polynesian races in the South Seas. The chiefs of Manus named him "Tut-tala," or "Teller of Tales."

MIDNIGHT DANCES
He learned how to open coconuts in the most approved native style and was the guest of honor at their midnight ceremonial dances with the accompanying monotonous pounding of drums, eerie chanting and swaying of gleaming naked bodies.

He said the natives of Manus could speak some English, being very slow and deliberate in their expression.

The chiefs were most friendly and expressed their sorrow when he decided to resume his wanderings.

Cutting Legislature Would Hit Small Communities Up Country, He Tells Kamloops

It Would Further Concentrate Political Power in Coast Population Centre, He Says

Associated Press
Kamloops, Sept. 2.—T. D. Pattullo, leader of the Liberal opposition, made his first public statement on the Kidd report during the course of an address to an informal gathering here. He is on a tour of the interior to inform himself at first hand of conditions and to exchange views with the members of his party.

As he has not yet had the opportunity to make a study of the complete report, Mr. Pattullo confined his comments to the broad question which had been raised by the report of cutting down representation in the Legislature. He declared any such reduction would hit most heavily the small outlying centres of population in the province and help to concentrate still further power in the main centre of population on the coast. He pointed out that many disadvantages could accrue from such a step and that they might be overlooked in the general anxiety for economy. It was, for instance, impossible to draw a parallel between Dominion and provincial representation. It should be remembered that the Dominion parliament dealt with general legislation, while the

Search Fails to Locate A. G. H. Harding Who Was Drowned Yesterday

Associated Press
Brentwood, Sept. 2.—A search for the body of A. G. Harding, 1161 Fort Street, who was drowned yesterday afternoon while fishing.

Provincial police were in charge of the search for the body, which is somewhere in the vicinity of Whittaker Point, where the tragedy occurred. W. Lenfestey, well-known sportsman, saw Mr. Harding a few minutes before the accident happened and was able to give police an approximate idea of the place. The water is several hundred feet deep at the point.

The sudden death of Mr. Harding was keenly felt in business circles here this morning when the tragedy became known. He was a commission agent and popular amongst his associates in the city.

Mr. Harding was fishing alone at Brentwood when his boat is believed to have capsized. There were no actual eye-witnesses but Mr. Lenfestey was about 500 yards away in a power boat, having put out from the Moodyville float a short time after Mr. Harding. (Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

BIG FLOW OF CASH TO STOCK MARKET

Associated Press
Financial Editor
New York, Sept. 2.—A rise in stock prices of almost 100 per cent, accompanied by no increase in brokers' loans of consequence, is one of the phenomena of the extraordinary last two months on the New York Stock Exchange.

The fact that stocks could achieve such a recovery without an important increase in marginal trading has been widely advanced as one of the market's most bullish aspects.

While the total quoted value of shares listed on the exchange, as measured by price indices, has appreciated some $12,000,000,000 from their lows of early July, the latest weekly brokers' loan statement shows a total only $14,000,000 above the July low.

The most obvious explanation would be there had been heavy buying of stocks for which full payment was made in cash.

Some brokers have reported clear indications of an extensive flow of hoarded cash into securities.

It is also acknowledged there has been considerable buying for cash for foreign account. United Kingdom investment corporations were reported to have been buying in earlier stages of the advance.

Special Traffic Facilities Arranged at Airport

Victoria's municipal airport at Gordon Head will be the mecca for air pilots from all over the Pacific northwest next Monday when the largest flying demonstration ever attempted here will take place.

Ernest Eve, flight manager of the show, returned yesterday evening from an air trip to Portland, where he made arrangements for a number of U.S. pilots to attend the show. If good weather prevails at outside points, it is possible thirty or forty machines will be on hand from northwest points to take part in aerobatic and speed contests at the airport, he said.

Mr. Eve had an adventurous trip south in his low-winged plane, being forced down by bad weather on three occasions during the trip. He won through without mishaps, however.

Several well-known fliers in Portland said they would visit Victoria for the Labor Day holiday to participate in the contests, he said. A number (Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Raid Leads to Measures at Armories in Oregon and Washington States

Machine Guns Mounted at Several of Buildings on Commander's Suggestion

Portland, Ore., Sept. 2.—Several national guard armories in Oregon and Washington have been placed under armed guard and in some instances machine guns have been posted as a precaution against raids such as that perpetrated Wednesday evening in Astoria, when a coastguard vessel was robbed of munitions, according to high military officials.

Major-General George A. White, commander of the forty-first division comprising all national guard units in the northwest, from his home in Salem said he had called the attention of all army commanders to the advisability of protecting the property in view of receipt of information indicating the possibility of raids similar to the one at Astoria. Gen. White would not say whether or not the guards had been ordered posted.

Scientist and Two Assistants Leave Pasadena, Cal., for Winnipeg, Where Planes Will Be Used

Associated Press
Pasadena, Cal., Sept. 2.—Dr. Robert A. Millikan and two assistants were en route to-day to Winnipeg, where the first observations will be made in an 8,000-mile cosmic ray research expedition.

Dr. Millikan, one of the foremost students of cosmic radiation, has completed tests at Marchfield, California, where army pilots carried his highly sensitive self-recording electroscopes to altitudes around 23,000 feet. Seven such flights were made with the electroscopes inclosed in a leaden ball which only cosmic rays could penetrate.

While the eminent physicist designed to make public his itinerary, he previously had stated he planned to make similar flights at Spokane and Minneapolis, and to make further recordings with the use of electroscopes, free balloons and tiny parachutes at Ellendale, N.D., and perhaps in the Texas Panhandle.

"Our programme," said Dr. Millikan, as he left for Winnipeg, "involves first upper air work in airplanes with electroscopes especially designed for yielding accurate results on moving and vibrating platforms, and therefore well adapted to airplane flights."

TO SEND UP BALLOONS

"The flights to be carried on in widely different latitudes and high altitudes should furnish the most crucial evidence obtainable as to the possible effects of the earth's magnetic field on cosmic rays. These effects have important bearings on the nature of cosmic radiation."

The Royal Canadian Air Corps will furnish airplanes for the Canadian observations and the United States Army and Weather Bureau will co-operate with them in further flights in this country and in the tests with free balloons which will carry the self-recording electroscopes far into the stratosphere.

Accompanying Dr. Millikan are Dr. Ira S. Bowen and Professor H. V. Neher of the California Institute of Technology, who aided him in designing the electroscopes which the physicist described as being as sensitive as any he had seen.

If the number of representatives were reduced, as suggested in the Kidd report, it was quite possible that vast areas of the province would be without proper representation in the Legislature and would be entirely at the mercy of a government dominated by a few members from the populated sections of the Coast. The economy which might be effected would be negligible and entirely outweighed by the loss and dissatisfaction such inadequate representation would cause.

German Army Decision To Be Made at Geneva

POSITION OF U.S.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Confirmation that France will consider only co-signatories of the treaty of Versailles regarding Germany's armaments memorandum, but also the United States government, was furnished to-day in official quarters.

It was explained the essential juridical reason for including the United States in that treaty, namely, that the air clauses contained in the Versailles Treaty, which the United States did not ratify, are embodied in the separate peace treaty which the United States negotiated with Germany in 1921. The United States derived all rights and advantages from that part of the Versailles document.

After denying a report the cabinet had rejected the German memorandum, an official spokesman said France would calmly and without haste examine the German initiative in complete collaboration with other powers.

It is believed also France will adhere to her traditional policy of handling all disarmament questions either through the League of Nations or the disarmament Conference, which is slated for an additional meeting at Geneva in the autumn.

TREATY SUBSTITUTE

It was pointed out the steering committee of the Disarmament Conference has been planning to make an eventual treaty substitute for the military, naval and air parts of the Versailles Treaty, and it was even said France might agree to this if the other Versailles signatories would fall into line.

The opinion was voiced in League of Nations circles here that Germany, aware of this programme, desired to negotiate an armaments arrangement with France beforehand.

The French Council of Ministers has been summoned for another meeting to-morrow.

Associated Press
New York, Sept. 2.—Two robbers were killed to-day during a hold-up of a Brooklyn pawnshop, another was wounded, and in a running battle wounds were also suffered by two policemen and one bystander.

Four robbers entered the pawnshop of George Phain in the Red Hook section of Brooklyn and one of them unconsciously set off a silent burglar alarm which signaled the hold-up. Police were quick on the scene.

ONE ESCAPED

During the ensuing gun battle George Nussbaum was killed, Charles Kelly, who police said was from Philadelphia, was fatally wounded, and Walter Gunn was wounded so seriously he was expected to die. The fourth robber escaped.

Of the police, Peter de Carlo was critically wounded, Ratselman, Ralph Malenfant's gun fell and was discharged, wounding him in the leg, and Amunzio Ciccioto, a passerby, was slightly wounded in the exchange of shots between police and robbers.

plan to take part in spectacular speed demonstrations. Vancouver, Chilliwack, Seattle, Bellingham and Salem, Oregon, will be other cities represented in the flights.

VANCOUVER DELEGATION

The delegation has manifested special interest in the show, and will send over a strong contingent. Alderman E. W. Dean, chairman of the airport committee of the Vancouver City Council, and W. Templeton, manager of the airport at Sea Island, have accepted an invitation to attend.

TRAFFIC FACILITIES

Owing to the traffic congestion which occurred at the last show, special arrangements for ticket sales and handling of traffic have been made. It was announced by W. H. Mearns, the business manager of the pageant, parking facilities will be provided on the field for motorists who wish them and those who have not already purchased tickets may secure them without slighting from their cars. Because a number of ticket-sellers are to be stationed outside of the field to accommodate motorists as they come along. A special ticket stand has been posted at the intersection of Yates and Douglas Streets for those who wish to buy them before going to the field.

SEABURY'S STATEMENT

From George Seabury, counsel for the Hostetler committee of the State Legislature, which dug up the material on which the unfriendly charges were based, came this statement:

"The charges against the mayor were fully proved and corroborated in many instances by documentary evidence which was undisputed, and by the admission of the mayor himself."

The mayor's resignation in the face of this record is equivalent to a confession of guilt.

No intelligent person will be misled by the mayor's attempt to substitute for a defence an assault on the good faith and the motives of the legally constituted authority to review his acts while in office.

It is highly significant that this excuse is availed of by the mayor on the eve of the Governor's inquiry into the charges against the mayor and his fugitive agent, Sherwood.

Mr. Seabury had charged that Russell T. Sherwood, accountant, handled nearly $1,000,000 in transactions for the mayor before vanishing. Mayor Walker denied the charge.

Paris, Sept. 2.—Confirmation that France will consider only co-signatories of the treaty of Versailles regarding Germany's armaments memorandum, but also the United States government, was furnished to-day in official quarters.

It was explained the essential juridical reason for including the United States in that treaty, namely, that the air clauses contained in the Versailles Treaty, which the United States did not ratify, are embodied in the separate peace treaty which the United States negotiated with Germany in 1921. The United States derived all rights and advantages from that part of the Versailles document.

After denying a report the cabinet had rejected the German memorandum, an official spokesman said France would calmly and without haste examine the German initiative in complete collaboration with other powers.

It is believed also France will adhere to her traditional policy of handling all disarmament questions either through the League of Nations or the disarmament Conference, which is slated for an additional meeting at Geneva in the autumn.

TREATY SUBSTITUTE

It was pointed out the steering committee of the Disarmament Conference has been planning to make an eventual treaty substitute for the military, naval and air parts of the Versailles Treaty, and it was even said France might agree to this if the other Versailles signatories would fall into line.

The opinion was voiced in League of Nations circles here that Germany, aware of this programme, desired to negotiate an armaments arrangement with France beforehand.

The French Council of Ministers has been summoned for another meeting to-morrow.

"Extraordinary inequity"—"irrevocable"—"mockery of justice"—"a biased judge"—were some of the phrases that studded the statement he gave out on his resignation.

DECISION BY PEOPLE

He announced the purpose of his resignation was to "change the venue," can change it to the supreme authority, "the people themselves."

He said, "I can change the place of trial so as to take it away from a biased judge acting illegally and in an avowed usurpation of power, with a personal interest in the outcome that disqualifies him as a matter of common decency from acting as a judge in the matter."

of New York and the court's decision in the case of the city, sponsored the Equitable Bus franchise.

6.—That the mayor acted in the Equitable matter to benefit a group of persons, including his friend, State Senator, John A. Hastings of Brooklyn.

7.—That the mayor improperly "facilitated" the purchase of 300 shares of Interstate Trust Company stock, 200 of which were subsequently used in connection with Equitable financing.

8.—That on the day prior to the signing of the Equitable franchise the mayor received a $10,000 letter of credit, subsequently augmented by a $3,000 overdraft, paid for by J. Allan Smith, one of the Equitable promoters.

9.—That the mayor accepted substantial gratuities from Paul Block, publisher, and others.

10.—That the mayor caused nearly $1,000,000 to be deposited, including about $700,000 in cash, by Russell T. Sherwood, and failed to give a satisfactory explanation of the source of that money.

11.—That the mayor failed to aid the Hostetler committee of the State Legislature in its efforts to call Sherwood, now missing, as a witness.

12.—That the mayor, in response to a subpoena, failed to produce complete records of his finances.

13.—That the mayor's testimony before the Legislative committee was neither frank nor truthful.

14.—That the mayor neglected his duty in failing to prevent his brother, Dr. William H. Walker, from splitting fees with other doctors who received city cases.

15.—That the mayor's conduct has in general been such as to render him unfit to continue in the office of mayor.

unit to continue in the office of mayor.

In addition, general charges of inefficiency were filed against the mayor by James E. Finegan, Brooklyn Democrat, and a group of co-signers.

GOVERNOR'S TASK ENDED

Albany, N.Y., Sept. 2.—The sensational trial by Governor Franklin Roosevelt of James J. Walker's fitness to hold office had been brought to an abrupt end to-day by the resignation of the New York mayor.

The resignation meant Governor Roosevelt would not, after all, be called on to decide whether Mayor Walker was fit to continue in office or should be removed—a decision which his friends felt would have serious political repercussions in either event.

Word of Mr. Walker's sudden withdrawal from office reached the governor yesterday evening as he sat in the executive mansion, mapping with his advisers some of his United States presidential campaign plans. To-day Mr. Roosevelt was to have presided at the capitol over the thirteenth-day session in his bearing of ouster charges against Mayor Walker.

Mr. Roosevelt read in silence Mr. Walker's bitter denunciation of his hearing at Albany, which the mayor termed "a tragedy, a mock trial, a proceeding in comparison to which even the practice of a drumhead court martial seemed liberal."

The governor said he had "nothing at all to say."

For Mr. Roosevelt, the resignation meant the termination of a highly complicated judicial case which in the last three weeks has required much of his time to the exclusion at times of state business and his presidential campaign.

POLITICAL "LYNCHING"

Following a review generally, Mr. Walker declared not a shred of justification existed for the governor's refusal to dismiss the charges.

"Under these circumstances," said Mr. Walker, "the question which I am faced with is: shall I permit myself to be lynched to satisfy prejudicial or political ambition?"

"I am not trying to avoid responsibility. I am incurring it by submitting my case to the people who make me mayor, the people of the city of New York. To this decision I have been urged by the most loyal and distinguished Democrats in the country."

HOLD DEGREES

Joseph V. McKee, the acting mayor, is a former judge, former Greek and Latin instructor and the holder of B.A., M.A., LL.B. and LL.D. degrees.

Mr. Walker, who was educated at the College of St. Francis Xavier in New York, holds an LL.B. degree. He graduated from the New York Law School. He is fifty-one years of age.

THE CHIEF CHARGES

Following is a summary of the principal charges against Mayor Walker on which the removal hearing was in progress before Governor Roosevelt when Mr. Walker resigned:

1.—That the mayor failed properly to execute his official duties; that he was actuated by improper and illegal considerations; that his explanations of his official acts were unworthy of credence.

2.—That the mayor accepted $28,000 in securities from J. A. Block & Co., brokers interested in taxicab company securities, and thereafter sponsored taxicab legislation desired by that concern.

3.—That Russell T. Sherwood, as the mayor's financial agent, received $22,000 from Samuel Ungerleider & Co., a brokerage firm similarly interested in taxicab legislation.

BOND INCIDENT

4.—That the mayor violated the city charter by holding convertible bonds of the Reliance Bronze and Steel Corporation, which received a city contract for traffic light standards.

5.—That the mayor, to the detriment

MISS K. TURNER EXHIBITS CALF

Eleven-year-old Victoria Girl Shows Hereford at Vancouver Fair

Vancouver, Sept. 2.—Carrying on the good work of the Turner family, Kathleen, aged eleven, exhibited a Hereford calf in the boys' and girls' club class at the Vancouver Exhibition.

Daughter of James Turner of Cadboro Bay, near Victoria, whose successes as a breeder and exhibitor of sheep, beef, cattle and horses are written large in the west, Kathleen started her livestock career at the age of six. One cold, wet fall fair at Vancouver Kathleen struggled with a refractory calf. Since then she has been a more or less regular exhibitor.

She follows a family line of youthful exhibitors. Annie Turner, her oldest sister, carried off premier honors at Kamloops and elsewhere a number of times in intervals in her school days. Then came Murray, followed by Rose-mand and Olive. Now Kathleen, and three more to come in turn into the limelight of the show ring as young exhibitors of livestock.

Kathleen's Hereford calf came from the farm of her Uncle Charles at Sumas.

Predicts 13,000,000 U.S. Jobless Soon

Washington, Sept. 2.—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, said in a statement yesterday that while unemployment in the United States had stopped increasing in August it had now reached the peak figure of 11,400,000, and the only way the situation could be met was to "shorten work hours, create jobs and get men back to work."

The federation president said 13,000,000 might be out of work by winter, and added: "Jobs must be created by the million if we are to avoid an unparalleled catastrophe."

Cats, peas and vetches put into the silo without cutting will produce ensilage which is mouldy and not fit for feed.

INTERNATIONAL LAW SURVEYED

Canadian Bar Association at Calgary Hears O. Jallu, Leading Paris Lawyer

Calgary, Sept. 2.—Conflicting systems of private international law in the different countries of the world are a handicap to international business, but there appears little immediate prospect of improving the situation, according to Maître Oliver Jallu of Paris, who addressed the Canadian Bar Association at its annual meeting here yesterday.

Maître Jallu, a distinguished French lawyer, came to bring the greetings of the legal profession of France to the Canadian Bar Association and at the end of his address was made an honorary life member. This dignity was conferred unanimously on a resolution moved by L. E. Beaulieu, K.C., LL.D., barrister of the bar of Montreal, and seconded by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, M.P., former Minister of Justice.

SURVEYS FIELD

Speaking in French, M. Jallu gave an exhaustive review of the subject of private international law, the law which governs dealings between individuals when they extend beyond the confines of one nation. Many attempts had been made to work out a code covering the subject in the past, but none had been successful. He doubted if a code would work well even if it were adopted by all nations because the courts of each nation would be certain to put their own interpretation on the written law and there would be as much confusion as there was now.

The situation was not without hope, however, he said, and Canada and the United States had evolved workable arrangements within their own borders in any scheme to bring about international uniformity. The private laws of the individual states differed, but uniformity of external private law as between states had been brought about. The same had been achieved in Canada, and this was more notable in view of the wider difference between the French civil law of Quebec and the English common law of the other provinces.

ADVISES LAWYERS ON PUBLIC LIFE

Mr. Justice Ewing of Alberta Says Politics Often Ruin Barristers

Calgary, Sept. 2.—Although there is only one lawyer in Canada for every 1,000 people, there is one lawyer in the House of Commons for every 100,000 people, and the ratio is slightly higher in the provincial legislatures. It is about the same. These figures were worked out by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing of the Supreme Court of Alberta and presented at yesterday's session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Bar Association here in an address on "The Place of the Lawyer in the Public Life of the Country."

The dominant part taken by lawyers in politics brought them small returns, Mr. Justice Ewing thought. He warned young lawyers to think seriously before jumping into the political arena. Too often it meant loss of contact with a man's practice, a brief space of public glory and then defeat when a man was too old to resume a successful practice.

STREW WITH WRECKS

Lawyers in the Canadian Commons did not work under the same handicaps as their brothers in the United Kingdom, he said. There it had been stated the Commons was "strewn with the wrecks of the reputations of great lawyers." In general he believed the English lawyer was a greater counsel than the Canadian, but a poorer public man.

HIGHER DUTY ON COAL IMPORTS

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—In a newspaper story yesterday The Ottawa Citizen forecast the tariff on U.S. anthracite coal, which was placed at 40 cents a ton last session, will be increased to 60 cents at the coming session of Parliament.

This, it said, would be in order to give the British anthracite, which comes in free, an additional 20 cents a ton preference under the Canada-United Kingdom agreement made at the recent Imperial Conference here.

Declares World Is Scrapping Old Ideas

Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Speaking at Canadian Bar Association Banquet in Calgary, Speaks of Changes; Viscount Hailsham Also Speaks

By Frank Flaherty, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Calgary, Sept. 2.—Callic wit and Anglo-Saxon astuteness combined in a festival of oratory at the annual banquet of the Canadian Bar Association here yesterday evening. Chief speaker was Hon. Ernest Lapointe, M.P., former Minister of Justice of Canada, who proposed the toast to the guests from abroad, and Rt. Hon. Viscount Hailsham, Secretary of State for War and former Lord Chancellor of the United Kingdom, who replied. Through it all the Prime Minister of Canada, Right Hon. R. S. Bennett, sat silent, but keenly interested.

Canada, in common with the rest of the world, was passing through a momentous period, said Mr. Lapointe. The conflict between brute force as a remedy for economic distress and advanced legal achievement was everywhere apparent. The duration, in fact the existence, of the present crisis was a challenge to human intelligence. He had no doubt men would find a way to direct civilization into its normal course again, but old ideas had to be scrapped.

INTERNATIONAL SOLUTIONS

Problems had to be viewed in a wider perspective. Competitive nationalism had collapsed. International solutions had to be found for present day difficulties, for nations could no longer isolate themselves from one another. Leadership and personalities were needed and there was no class better fitted to supply them than the legal profession.

Canada, said Mr. Lapointe, had been a laboratory in which the possibility of a free nation living within a commonwealth of nations had been tested. He saw no reason why the spirit of co-operation shown by the nations of the British Empire could not be exemplified in a wider sphere so the nations of the world could work in harmony.

NATIONAL FREEDOM

Believing the British Empire the greatest agency for peace and for the advancement of civilization in the world, Canadians were firmly attached to it, said Mr. Lapointe. They were none the less firm in insisting on the fullest national liberty and he recalled with pleasure his participation in the momentous Imperial Conference of 1926, when the principle of the equality of status of the Dominions was adopted.

Joining with Mr. Lapointe in proposing the toast was Mr. Justice R. M. Dennistoun of the Court of Appeal of Ontario. This meeting of the Canadian Bar Association, he said, would show the guests from abroad how the French civil law and the English common law worked together in Canada. The chief justice of Manitoba, he said, (Mr. Justice Prendergast) was a French-Canadian, trained in the civil law, who for thirty years had administered the common law with success.

Lord Hailsham, recalled, amusing incidents at the recent Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa. A United States citizen, in Ottawa, he said, had once been told a beautiful woman was the secretary of one of the British delegates. He had declared this was impossible for there were no beautiful Englishwomen.

To rectify this insult Lord Hailsham thought the whole British war debt should be cancelled.

Maître Oliver Jallu of Paris and W. P. McCracken Jr. of Washington spoke briefly.

Addressing a toast to the bench and bar of Alberta, Hon. M. A. MacPherson, attorney-general of Saskatchewan, paid tribute to the law schools of the western provinces, from which most of the laws of Saskatchewan as well as Alberta had come.

A. L. Smith, K.C., of Calgary, replied.

LOTTERY CHARGE LAID IN OTTAWA

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—Curiosity of police, aroused by the large quantities of letters received by Maurice Potvin of Hull, Que., resulted in his arrest under a charge of lottery. Potvin was about to empty his mail box at the General Post Office when he was taken into custody and the letters, more than 100, held for examination.

The letters it was discovered, were from points all over Canada and the United States, many containing money and all relating to the sale of lottery tickets. They were addressed to "Orange Langton, P.O. Box 540, Ottawa," and some contained references to the Army and Navy Veterans' lottery tickets, police say.

Potvin claimed he had no connection with the Army and Navy Veterans and that he had been engaged by unnamed persons to collect the mail and forward it in bundles to a Montreal address.

He was scheduled to be arraigned today and remanded pending further investigation.

DRIVE TO CREATE JOBS IN THE U.S.

New York, Sept. 2.—Walter C. Teagle today announced he had temporarily freed himself from his job as president of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to lead what he proposed to make the most intensive and far-reaching campaign ever undertaken in the United States to create jobs.

Established in new headquarters in the Federal Reserve Bank Building, the Standard Oil head, as chairman of the special co-ordinating committee, formed at the suggestion of President Hoover, outlined a programme, the fulfillment of which is expected materially to reduce the number of the country's jobless.

GARNET WHEAT IS DISCUSSED

Toronto, Sept. 2.—If Garnet wheat had been separately graded during the last year, growers would have had to cut it in price, asserted Hon. Robert Weir in a statement to the National Agricultural Conference, which ended its sessions here yesterday.

Contrary to the opinion of the National Research Council, said Mr. Weir, the Department of Agriculture he administered had taken the stand there was not sufficient evidence to justify a separate grading of Garnet. The department did not accept the view that the wheat was less satisfactory to the United Kingdom millers since Garnet had come into the picture.

Mr. Weir declared no person would be more eager to support separate grading of Garnet wheat than he if it would be beneficial to wheat growers. As a result of the arguments advanced by his department the whole question had been held over for further discussion at the meeting of the main standards board this autumn.

BRITISH COLUMBIA HOUSE

ONE OF THE RECOMMENDATIONS OF the Kild committee is that the provincial government should close British Columbia House in London and sell the property. This would not be good policy at present.

In 1915 the province borrowed $291,000 for this property, giving a mortgage which will mature in 1945. This liability involves an annual payment of $12,125 for interest and $9,700 for principal. At the end of the last fiscal year this mortgage had been reduced to $129,000. These annual payments are met out of the consolidated revenue fund. Rental of space in the building largely helps to make these payments. Up to recently there had been a gradual narrowing down of the adverse balance between the rent revenue and the expenditure under all heads for the Agent-General, his staff, supplies, advertising, traveling, and so on. In the fiscal year 1924-1925, before the ground floor space was converted for commercial purposes and rented to outside concerns, the net cost was a little more than $31,000; but in the fiscal year 1929-1930, before the effect of the economic recession had made itself felt, this had been cut to $5,500, the revenue that year amounting to a little more than $71,000 and expenditures accounting for a little more than $76,600.

In the meantime several concerns which rented accommodation have gone out of business and, in common with the general trend, the rents have had to be lowered. For the fiscal year of 1930-1931 the expenditure was $95,399 and revenue $68,931. Additional traveling expenses for the Agent-General and a bigger volume of advertising, however, have been responsible for a considerable part of the increased operating cost.

During the early part of the Oliver regime there was a disposition on the part of the government to get rid of the property in question. But after the architect who designed the building—and who, incidentally, has been looking after it until quite recently—had explained how its value would increase very substantially from year to year, and that by 1945 it would be an extremely valuable asset, the government decided that it would be foolish to part with it.

If the property were isolated in some out-of-the-way part of London there might be some apprehension about its future material value. But it is in a commanding position, almost in the heart of the west end and surrounded by important property land-marks which are continually increasing in value.

MR. WALKER REMOVES HIMSELF

MAYOR WALKER OF NEW YORK HAS attracted a good deal of attention to himself in the last seven years by his dramatic activities; but his resignation from the mayoralty on the eve of Governor Roosevelt's inquiry into the relations with his alleged fugitive agent, one Sherwood, would suggest that the attention which has been directed toward him recently has been far from his liking, and that what might have been divulged within the next few days, had the inquiry proceeded, would have been much more distasteful still. He is charged with using his office for his own financial advantage.

In a statement issued to-day Mr. Walker has a lot of nasty things to say about the form the inquiry has taken and he intimates that he will leave his case in the hands of the people of New York. The general impression is that he will run again for the chief magistracy. Should he do so and get elected, he implies that the voters will then have shown they were satisfied with his record and that the proceedings to have him removed from office were not justified. His prospects in this respect are very dubious. Mr. Roosevelt had nothing to say about the mayor's resignation; but Judge Seabury, who was counsel for the New York State Legislature's investigation committee which dug up the material upon which charges of Mr. Walker's unfitness to remain in office were based, says the mayor's resignation is equivalent to a confession of guilt.

Although Governor Roosevelt so far has made no statement in connection with the mayor's resignation it can be taken for granted that he sighed with relief when he heard about it. He is the candidate of the Democrats in the presidential election. Mr. Walker is a Democrat and New York is largely Democrat—and so is a substantial part of the state, with its 13,000,000 people. All the time, therefore, Mr. Roosevelt knew that if he exercised his executive authority and ousted Mr. Walker on the evidence produced before the Seabury inquiry, he would offend many political friends in his own state although the rest of the United States would approve such action. He also knew, of course, that if he permitted the mayor to remain in office in the light of the record, he might please many Democrats in New York State but incur a good deal of hostility in other parts of the country. Even now Mr. Walker's friends will probably say he was driven to resignation by the proceedings of what he calls an unfair and biased tribunal. Governor Roosevelt nevertheless has been spared the necessity of finally deciding the issue.

WHISTLING COWS

OUT IN THE COW COUNTRY OF NE-braska, Dr. Peter Johanna Christiansen has perfected an invention which seems likely to prove a boon both to cow owners and alfalfa growers.

A cow's digestive tract is quite a complicated business, for a cow has four stomachs. But despite the extra equipment with which nature has endowed the cow, her eye is generally bigger than her four stomachs and the result is that bloating, often fatal, sometimes follows a hearty meal on alfalfa.

Now Dr. Christiansen has fixed it so that cows can eat their alfalfa and have their health, too. By means of a perforated cylinder, fitted with a ball valve and spring, inserted into the cow's stomach, bloating is stopped before it starts. The alfalfa is allowed to escape—with a whistling sound—as rapidly as it forms. The thing works automatically, the valve opening when pressure reaches a given stage.

Farmers who have their sleep disturbed by the whistling will at least have the comfort of knowing that man has provided something for his cows which even nature forgot about, and that the "safety valve" is taking care of what might have been a very strenuous night for Bossy.

That the invention has infinite possibilities is obvious. By simply blending the notes of the various whistles in his herd, a farmer may have harmonious music to cheer him as he goes about his daily toil.

And when the first enterprising Nebraskan organizes the first genuine all-cow whistling choir, his fortune will be made.

JAPAN AND MANCHURIA

IF IT TOOK JAPAN A CONSIDERABLE time to realize that her action in Manchuria and Shanghai incurred almost world-wide hostility, she seems to be aware of the fact now. The discussion the other day in the House of Representatives drew from Foreign Minister Uchida at least one unequivocal statement which will be carefully noted by more than one government. In his reference to Manchuria he had this to say:

Japan is confronted with an unprecedented opposition of world opinion. Nevertheless we are determined to follow the course already fixed in the face of all opposition. The government is doing its utmost through our diplomats abroad to improve world feeling toward Japan, but thus far we can admit no optimism.

One member of the House, incidentally, demanded to know what the government was doing about "concentration of the American Navy in the Pacific." But Count Uchida parried this adroitly by replying that he saw no reason why Japan should ask Washington to explain its fleet dispositions or otherwise take official notice of them.

In the form of this discussion—no doubt carefully stage-managed to bring out the Foreign Minister's statement—we get the real Japanese point of view. It is a serving of notice on the rest of the world that she does not propose to get out of Manchuria and that she is employing all the means at her command to make the rest of the world approve the measures she has taken to consolidate her position there—all of which, of course, is in defiance of the League of Nations, her obligation under the Briand-Kellogg pact, and in still more definite defiance of the Nine-Power Treaty which had for one of its principal objects the preservation of the sovereignty of China.

It is too late for the League of Nations to do anything about Japanese imperialism now. It had an opportunity when Japan committed her first act of trespass in Manchuria. It neglected it because too many member states have not quite cured themselves of their own similar habits.

BACON AND CATTLE

CANADA'S EXPORTS OF LIVE CATTLE to Great Britain during the present year to the end of June totalled 9,793 head. This figure compares with 8,895 head exported to the British market during the first half of 1931. Shipments are continuing regularly from Montreal.

The provinces of Ontario and Alberta have been most active in shipping cattle to Britain during the present season, a statement of the origins of shipments showing 5,204 head from Ontario country points and stock yards and 3,338 from Alberta sources. Manitoba has supplied 788 head, Saskatchewan 390, and Quebec seventy-three.

Another current statement of the Dominion Livestock Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, indicates increases in exports of bacon to Great Britain this year. Up to May 31 the shipments this year were 10,500,000 pounds heavier than in the same period a year ago, while pork shipments in the same comparison increased by nearly 2,000,000 pounds. During May, 3,855,500 pounds, out of total exports of 4,431,200 pounds, went forward to the British market. For the same month a year ago the exports to Britain were 612,400 pounds, out of a total to all countries of 768,200 pounds. For five months of the current year Canada exported to Great Britain practically four times the quantity of bacon as in the same period of 1931, or 10,818,900 pounds against 2,809,900 pounds last year. Including exports to other countries, the total exports of Canadian bacon to the end of May in 1932 were 14,030,400 pounds, against 3,497,000 pounds in the first five months of 1931.

Larger comparative increases are shown by the exports of pork shipments to Great Britain during May reaching 795,100 pounds, as compared to only 33,200 pounds in the same month a year ago, while the five months' total of 2,090,400 pounds was fifteen times the quantity of 141,900 pounds shipped to Britain up to the end of May last year. Including exports to other countries, Canada shipped 4,612,100 pounds of pork in the period from January 1 to May 1 this year, against 1,750,100 pounds exported in the corresponding months a year ago.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

FEWER FIRES
 The Montreal Gazette

Henri Lamontagne, statistician of the Montreal Fire Department, reports that to date this year the serious fires are 50 per cent less than in 1931. In general but a few minutes elapse between receipt of the alarm call and the return signal that the blaze is under control. This fact is testimony to the efficiency of the firemen and their equipment. The fires that do break out are seldom permitted to spread to large proportions.

A THOUGHT

For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise.—Hebrews x 36.
 Great is the advantage of patience.—Tillotson.

Loose Ends

Speaking of politics (though why should we?), there is something doing on the Talmie farm—there is no slander in sex appeal—there is money on the air—and there is need of strong lamp posts.

By H. B. W.

SPEAKING OF POLITICS, if we must, though personally I have no interest in them whatever, I note by the newspapers that Premier Talmie will take the week-end to ponder the political situation before issuing a statement next week. You won't understand it, because you are not a farmer like the premier and myself, but there is rare wisdom in his plan to decide the future course of events during spending the week-end on the old Talmie farm. From the live stock, from the sleek cows, the pigs and the gobbling turkeys of the Talmie farm he will get better advice than he will find in cabinets and caucuses, and just as intelligible. One impulse from the vernal woods which sweep up to Mount Douglas will be more valuable, I should imagine, than any of the impulses which usually animate political conventions, and personally I have always been able to get more out of the look in a horse's eye than the words in a statesman's mouth.

THERE WILL BE nodding corn out on the Talmie farm this week-end, as sleek as many a successful politician and easier to look at. There will be a soft autumn haze over everything no thicker than the haze which hangs over British Columbia's politics. There will be a brooding peace over there which the premier can never find within the Council Chamber. You will not understand it, but there will be wisdom out there as ripe as the reddening autumn apples. Yes, the red apples of the future of British Columbia politics is being decided, the corn will nod wisely and whisper a cheerful message as it rustles in the wind, the cows will look things which statesmen cannot say and, unlike politicians, all of them will give the prime minister the same sound advice. All of them, in this autumn season of mists and mellow fruitfulness, will unite in telling the prime minister that, whatever he does, whether he succeeds or fails, it won't matter much to history. There will still be corn and cows and blue autumn mists next year even if the governor body of novices, and for a long, long time after that.

CONTINUING THIS disagreeable subject of politics, a decision has lately been handed down by the German courts of concern to us as we approach the provincial election, which is getting nearer all the time, as is Christmas and the dissolution of the sun. As I read the case, a lady named Miss Tony Sender, a member of the Reichstag and a fighting politician, was called by a political opponent Die Sexappeleiche Fraulein, which may be translated as meaning the girl with the sex appeal. Now this annoyed Miss Sender who is a spinster of forty-three and not excessively hard, judging by her photograph, to look at. She sued the political opponent for slander. The court was thus faced with the vital question whether it is slandering a woman to call her sex-appealing. In their historic decision they found that it wasn't exactly slander, but it was very bad taste.

ALL THIS shows you the difference between people's loose ends and in Germany. In the approaching provincial election, which may occur any minute or later, it might be worth while for someone to test the Canadian law on this subject. He will find, contrary to the German view, that no handsome female candidate will charge him with slander for saying she possesses sex appeal. But let anybody say that a lady candidate possesses no sex appeal and he will be branded as a slandering scoundrel, and the lady's friends will probably tar-and-feather him. Most assuredly it is slander in this country to say that a lady lacks sex appeal, and this shows you how would not have been merely libelous to say she had it, but any man who even mentioned the word would have had to shoot it out at dawn.

AS WE CAN'T get away from politics, it is alarming, but not too alarming, to note that the political parties of the United States are in grave trouble. Like most trouble these days, it is financial. They are broke. They are passing their hats among all their rich friends, among the army of ambassadors, industrial magnates, job holders and hangers-on to pay for the enormous expenses of the presidential campaign. The biggest expense-burden is the radio. Every time there is a national look-up for Mr. Hoover or Mr. Roosevelt, the cost is appalling. It is calculated that it takes the promise of jobs for eleven ambassadors, seventy-six United States consuls and 198 postmasters, as well as a contract for two battleships and three wharves, to pay for the expense of a single radio broadcast. Both parties are wondering whether there will be enough ambassadors, consuls, postmasters, wharves and battleships to go around.

THE ONE THING NEEDFUL. To the Editor:—In the Kild report we are glad to see the mental hygiene report still lives. The postponement of the erection of our psychiatric hospital as recommended rather eclipses the gladness. We long to see enlightened treatment for the first nervous breakdown. The crude and rude treatment accorded these cases in our city is a permanent entrant and ward of the government at Escondido. We wait for enlightened treatment in the first stage of these sick patients, which as yet, none but the rich have ever had. This is truly a great need as the sterilization of those whom the medical world dreams unit to propagate the species. Great care in this is needed lest we destroy some geniuses in the process. Ouida, in her great novel, "Triton," says: "It is never the best that is in us, that men count our insinuations."

THE KIDD ANIMADVERSIONS

HERE YOU have a condition important to the United States and to us. The radio has become one of the chief agencies of government, one of the most important means of educating the people in public affairs and in deciding the largest national issues. It is purely a matter of business. The radio has the most money gets control of it. The party which promises the most ambassadors, battleships, etc., which can raise the largest slush fund among needy business men, has the radio most of the time. The other party, which for its poverty if for nothing else, should be elected, can't afford the radio and probably can't get elected. When both parties have the same amount to spend, you may be sure that they are both pretty bad, that they have both promised all kinds of concessions and favors, contrary to the public interest. The radio has no sense of obligation to the public. The newspapers, with all their faults, have. They print what all candidates say, however absurd. They print long reports of commissions and committees for nothing, which the radio wouldn't handle without a huge subsidy. Obviously something has got to be done about the radio. Obviously it should be open to candidates of every stripe, radicals included. Nobody can buy the entire press, but anybody with enough money can buy the air.

THE BEST economy, incidentally, which British Columbia could undertake and one overlooked, I regret to say, up to this time, would be a large part of our poverty financial expenditure to finance political campaigns. If all parties were guaranteed a definite amount from the treasury this might cost a quarter of a million every four years, but the savings would run into many millions. For the reason that the parties which gather in huge slush funds from private individuals now have to repay these contributors in one form or another in extravagant purchases, contracts, jobs and what-nots. For every dollar the parties take in, you can be sure the treasury later loses at least ten. A large part of our poverty financial expenditure may be traced to that fact. I would give the politicians the money to run their own campaigns. I would enforce a Spartan economy among them. I would forbid them paying eminent gentlemen of the legal profession and others so much a day to travel about the province making speeches, when the public imagines they are doing it for their sacred principles. And finally, if any politician were found taking any private campaign funds from anybody whatsoever, I would hang him by the neck from one of the maples of Parliament Square. That is, if the maples aren't all dead by that time. Anyway, there are some convenient lamp posts nearby, the possibilities of which have never been properly explored yet.

OTHER PEOPLE'S VIEWS. To the Editor:—Congratulations on your masterly comment on "The Kidd Report." I imagine that if the advice given in that report were followed out in its entirety British Columbia would revert to the condition of a backward state, comparable to pre-war Russia or the Balkans. To avoid such a lamentable event, and at the same time rehabilitate our finances, I would suggest that a 10 per cent per annum tax be levied on the watered stock of all British Columbia companies for the next ten years.

J. G. GUNNINGHAM.
 R. M. D. No. 3, Victoria.

To the Editor:—On June 15, 1915, at Runnymede, an aggregation of barons compelled King John of England to sign the Magna Charta, in which they were protected against the royal prerogative of rapacious invasion upon their vested rights by sequestration or otherwise, but we find no protection demanded in behalf of the general populace, for they were but instruments of exploitation by the barons. Many decades after this event, Mr. Vanderbilt, the elder, a New York railway magnate, tersely remarked: "The public be damned." To-day we have the Kidd committee like the barons of old, demanding the protection of special privileges without regard to the hewers of wood and carriers of water. They demand a cut in the standard of wages which means a lowering in the standard of living. They demand a lowering in the standard of education, which means a lower ethical standard, child labor and its exploitation.

There can be no question as to the excessive and unnecessary cost of administration, but are we ourselves not responsible for much of this deficiency, particularly those who have had the administrative effect upon the body politic, and this by our own demands and evasions. The fiscal obligations of the plastic mind are starved, and the love of home but a passing thought, while the neglect to foster and develop the subtle infusion of the spiritual and material life that is so obligatory upon the home, under such divorcement, brings discord to a harmonious whole.

It is said that one is judged by the company he associates with. So, likewise, can a people be judged by its administrators. We hear of the birth (no definiteness as to whether a boy or girl) of a no-party party whatever that may mean. We have spent thousands of dollars in the education of our public men in their apprenticeship into statesmanship. Many of them have not gone beyond the puppet or apprentice stage. Are we to appreciate another body of novices? Before an actual situation it would be more than futile to discuss or act upon a hypothetical one. Let us set aside visions and concentrate upon the stern realities of a none-too-inviting condition. Let us demand from our administrators a strict adherence to the basic laws of economics—constructive legislation, conducted on economical lines, compatible with satisfying results. Waste and extravagance, party administration should call for summary dismissal. By thus taking up the duties and obligations of citizenship can we ever hope to bring stability from chaos.

RELIEF SCRIP IN VANCOUVER

Abandonment of Grocery
Depot Reduces Staff By
Twenty-two Members

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 2.—The Vancouver city relief department yesterday abandoned its grocery depot and substituted a system of vouchers, redeemable for goods at any grocery store in the city.
First vouchers were distributed at the relief office at Cambie and Pender Streets yesterday morning. The arrangement will be continued for an indefinite period as an experiment.

Meat and fish scrip has been distributed since July 1. Families will continue to receive these coupons with their grocery vouchers and bread and milk tickets.

Twenty-five members of the relief staff who were engaged in the grocery depot have been laid off. Two or three will be engaged to handle vouchers.
The lower floor space in the relief office where the grocery store was situated will be occupied by other branches of the staff which, even now, is suffering from crowded conditions.

Valera May Be League Chairman

Canadian Press
Dublin, Sept. 2.—President Eamon de Valera has decided to attend the forthcoming meeting of the Council of the League of Nations, it is understood in official circles here. He will probably be elected chairman of the council this year.

It is rumored Dublin will again be visited by Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas, Secretary of State for the Dominions in the United Kingdom Government. He is expected to take the lead in further negotiations designed to remove the differences between the Free State and the United Kingdom which arose from the land annuities dispute.

SEE DANGER IN TRANSIENTS

New Criminal Class May Be Produced, Say Canadian Bar
Association Members

Canadian Press
Calgary, Sept. 2.—If the movement of unemployed transients from place to place is allowed to continue it will produce a new criminal class from which Canada has hitherto been practically free. This is one of the findings of the committee of the Canadian Bar Association on the administration of criminal justice, and forms part of the committee's report submitted for consideration at yesterday's session of the association's annual meeting here.

To cope with the transient problem, the committee recommends active enforcement of the vagrancy sections and other portions of the Criminal Code which seem to have been held in "abeyance."
Legislation which would impose on every community responsibility for the maintenance of indigents produced in that community, with federal assistance, should be passed without delay, the committee urges.

GOOD AND BAD, SAYS ODLUM

Approves Spirit of Kidd Report,
But Disagrees With Many Particulars

Canadian Press
Vancouver, Sept. 2.—"Good and bad" sums up the comment of Brig.-Gen. V. W. Odium, former M.P.P., on the recommendations of the Kidd committee. He approves the spirit, but disagrees with many of the particulars of the report.

Some are uneconomic, some are unconstitutional, some impossible, he holds, but, with the desire to eliminate the worst features of partisan politics he states he is heartily in sympathy.
"So many excellent recommendations are made in the Kidd report," said Gen. Odium, "that the inclusion of some that are either impractical or uneconomic is to be regretted."

"The basic idea of the report, condemnation of the wasteful extravagance growing out of an exaggerated form of partisan politics, is sound."

"Parties in British Columbia have striven to gain office merely to be in office—not to carry out any special programme or policy, and the fight for office has been so bitter and has cost each party so much that swollen campaign funds have become a necessity. The need for party funds has driven party managers to extreme measures. They have had to meet bank overdrafts and expense accounts on an ever-increasing scale and money has to be found in such large quantities that only from those who could be allowed to profit at the public expense was there any hope of getting it."

"Not private graft on the part of politicians, but the actual cost of carrying on campaigns has been at the root of the sorry spectacle put in provincial affairs during recent years."

"The only cure I can see is a truce to partisan politics. Parties will always exist as long as opinions differ; but the spirit that elevates party above opinion or policy ought to be killed."

"Had the Kidd commission confined itself to a condemnation of partisan politics and its attendant extravagance in campaign costs and to recommendations of specific economies in administration it would have done a splendid public service."

"The effect of its admittedly good work, however, has been marred in my opinion by its incursions into fields in which public opinion cannot be united. Some of its recommendations would not be economic. Others are based on a misconception of the British constitution. Still others, while excellent, are politically impractical—there would be no hope of getting the mass of the people to agree."

In criminality in Canada during the last year, the committee found, Canadians had remained law-abiding.

Recalls Clean-up In Former Crisis

Vancouver, Sept. 2.—"Anxiously awaited, the Kidd report turns out to be a thorough, capable business man's analysis of British Columbia's financial affairs; everyone should read it," says The Vancouver Sun editorially.

"Whether or not one agrees with all the recommendations in the report, one must admire the diligence and understanding with which the involved and difficult work was carried on."

"Briefly, the report shows that British Columbia is bankrupt. Interest on a net debt of $119,000,000, plus the present expenses of running the province, total $24,000,000 annually; receipts are $18,000,000. This means a deficit of about $6,000,000 per year."

LOTS OF COMPANY

"British Columbia need not get unduly excited over her suggested bankruptcy, because if the present revenues and present business volume which now obtain in this province as well as across this continent are the maximum which can be expected for the next ten years, British Columbia in her bankruptcy troubles will have plenty of company."

"There are few provinces or states or nations which can pay interest on their present debts with their present volume of business and trade."

"One error in the Kidd report is that its revenues are based on the lowest year of the depression, whereas government expenditures, on the other hand, are based on the highest year of prosperity. Between these two amounts lies reform and remedy."

"What are we going to do about it? There is no magic in formula, no sorcery in self-analysis. One can audit a business to death, just as an individual can analyze and moralize himself to death. That is to say, we cannot stop short at this splendid diagnosis of British Columbia's ailments and content ourselves with negative remedies. A falling concern not only has got to stop wasting money, but it has got to start creating new business and making new money. Economy and NEW BUSINESS then is the way to remedy our troubles."

RECALLS 1916 "CRISIS"

"When Moses Cotsworth, at the request of local business men, printed his 'Crisis' in 1916 on the maladministration of the Bowser Government, this public set up. They turned Bowser and his grafters and wasters out of office. In one short year the Brewster-Oliver Government, with a mandate for reform, cleaned house; they eliminated waste, encouraged new industries, aided the Powell River and Pacific Mills in their newspaper mills and all over the province did those things which create business."

"It is senseless to say that blame for the present mess rests entirely on the Toimie government. It is equally senseless to think or to look and hope for improvement from the present 'do-nothing' group in Victoria."

"BORROW NO MORE"

"The job that has to be tackled requires at once a new government; and after the mess that Toimie and his vacillating group have made of things, it is obvious that those chosen to put British Columbia's house in order will, in all probability, be a strong-minded and Liberal-minded group who will be joined and guided by many of the useful suggestions from the business auditors of the Kidd report."

"The Kidd report demands in no uncertain terms that the government call a quick session, reduce its members to twenty-eight and meantime borrow no more money."

"Considering its sources, this warn-

SOVIET PARTY GOES FAR NORTH

Moscow, Sept. 2.—Four Soviet scientists have ended a lonely two-year vigil in the bleak Arctic wastes of Northernland, during which their only contact with civilization was by radio. They have been relieved by four other observers, one of them a woman.

A brief wireless dispatch from the icebreaker Sibiriakov, now engaged in Arctic exploration, reports the four, headed by the geographer Ushakov, were taken aboard after the relief party, sent out aboard the icebreaker, had taken over.

The woman member of the replacement party is Iri Rusinova, who, although she is only thirty, is a veteran of polar expeditionary work. With her three colleagues she will spend the next two years at the four outposts whose only human inhabitants will continue their explorations and mapping of Northernland.

The four men who are returning were reported to be in excellent health despite the difficulties of their assignment.

CAR CRASH ON BRIDGE

An automobile, a street car and an immovable bridge girder figured in the unusual accident pictured above. It occurred on the Queensboro Bridge, New York, after a truck had forced the sedan off the automobile path and over the curb. The car ploughed into the girder, bumped a passing street car and wedged itself so firmly between the girder and the pavement that it had to be pulled out by an auto crane. The driver received scalp wounds.

SASKATCHEWAN
PLANS RELIEF

To Help Solve Problem on Voluntary Basis Aim of Sessions Held in Regina

Regina, Sept. 2.—Plans by which Saskatchewan will solve its own relief problem on a voluntary basis during the coming winter were being worked out to-day.

Some sixty representatives of churches, service clubs, fraternal societies and other charitable organizations, summoned by Premier J. T. M. Anderson gathered here Wednesday and laid preliminary plans for a province-wide movement to work in conjunction with the Saskatchewan commission.

After discussing the voluntary relief organization from various angles, the meeting gave the proposal its endorsement. A nominating committee was struck, which met later to name an executive. Again yesterday the executive met and proceeded with the drawing up of a plan for a province-wide committee of representatives to act on the behalf of the proposed organization throughout the province.

With its aim to supplement the work of the relief commission in the voluntary relief organization will put on a province-wide campaign in the good crop areas to secure donations of the necessities of life for farmers in the south central part of the province who are facing crop failure for the fourth successive year.

SEATTLE HAS BEER PARADE

More Than 1,000 Join in Prohibition Repeal Demonstration

Seattle, Sept. 2.—Water carts, disassembled automobiles and brewery trucks—all to the tune of the lively strains of pre-Volstead days—were marshaled through streets here yesterday evening by upward of 1,000 marchers in a beer parade.

Along Third Avenue, the route of the march, throngs of people cheered the performers. The paraders were headed by a police escort.

Among the many floats were several sponsored by brewing companies, and numerous signs and banners were borne aloft, some with inscriptions in verse, asking repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and the state bone dry law.

The winner for the best float was a gayly decorated automobile by State Senator Paul Houser of Seattle. On it was mounted a bottle which he described as pre-Volsteadian beer, for which he said he had taken out a $10,000 insurance policy for twenty-four hours, to protect its contents.

NEW AID PLAN FOR FARMERS

Dominion-Provincial Committee to Co-ordinate Work of Varied Services

Toronto, Sept. 2.—One hundred agricultural officials from all parts of Canada were returning home to-day after holding the first national agricultural conference here.

As a result of their efforts Canada is to have a national agricultural committee, supervising and co-ordinating the work of the agricultural services throughout the Dominion. Headed by the federal minister, it will include all provincial ministers of agriculture and their advisers.

Summoned by Hon. Robert Weir, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, the conferees directed their efforts to help the Canadian farmers make more money. As an immediate aid the conference agreed to co-ordinate services on a Dominion-wide scale, to eliminate duplication, and to spare no effort in placing skilled knowledge at the disposal of the farmers.

Special committees prepared the reports which were passed by the conference yesterday. They are being held secret pending consideration by the federal and provincial governments, but it is understood they propose many changes in organization. Government intelligence services, experimental farms and agricultural colleges are likely to be affected.

TRANSPORTATION REPORT

Ottawa, Sept. 2 (Canadian Press).—The report of the Royal Commission on Transportation will be ready for submission to the government the latter part of next week. As many as possible of the commissioners, headed by Mr. Justice Duff, will attend a meeting at which the report will be signed and the signature of any commissioner who may be unable to attend the final meeting will be obtained earlier.

The members of the commission probably will wait on Premier Bennett and members of the cabinet and formally present the report.

TEN IDAHO BANKS ARE CLOSED OUT

Associated Press
Boise, Idaho, Sept. 2.—The First National Bank of Idaho and nine subsidiary banks in central and western Idaho and eastern Oregon were closed were turned over to the national and state bank officials.

Total resources of the banks were $12,753,063 on the date of the last bank call, June 30.

The First National Bank of Idaho, in Boise, was the largest single institution of its kind in the state. Its closing marked the second bank to suspend business in Boise within thirty days, the Boise City National Bank having failed to open August 1.

The First Security Bank of Boise is the only bank remaining in the city. The banks closed, with their resources are:

First National Bank of Idaho, $7,557,352.

Rupert State Bank, $420,014.

Buhl State Bank, $613,293.

Meridian State Bank, $176,108.

Nampa State Bank, $765,746.

Caldwell State Bank, $753,377.

Bank of Emmett, $364,165.

Weiser State Bank, $856,883.

Ontario National Bank, Ontario, Ore., $956,433.

Vale National Bank, Vale, Ore., $280,688.

Officers of the organization included Crawford Moore, president; J. W. Cunningham, vice-president, and Raymond Moore, cashier.

TRADE DECLINES IN FREE STATE

Canadian Press
Dublin, Sept. 2.—Irish Free State trade returns are already showing the effect of the economic war with the United Kingdom, which followed refusal of the Valera government to meet the land annuities.

With high tariffs on both sides of the Irish Sea, Free State imports during July were only $14,472,000, compared with $17,552,000 in the same month of 1931, and exports were down from $11,372,000 to $9,254,000.

Chinese truck farmers from the Okanagan Valley, B.C., are finding the Red River district, Alberta, well suited for vegetable raising.

RANCHER EARL WEDS CALGARY GIRL

The Earl of Egmont, who recently succeeded to the title on the death of his father in England, is shown above as he rode in the annual stampede at Calgary. Yesterday he was married very quietly to Miss Ann Geraldine Moodie of Calgary, and he and his Countess are now on their way to the Coast on their honeymoon trip.

Canadian Press

Calgary, Sept. 2.—Alberta's rancher-earl has apparently found peace and privacy for his honeymoon journey to the Coast. Efforts to locate Frederick George Moore Percival, eleventh Earl of Egmont, and his young bride proved futile yesterday evening, although it was known they were en route to the Pacific Coast via Jasper Park. Yesterday the Earl and his bride, Miss Ann Geraldine Augusta Moodie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Moodie, prominent Calgaryers, were in Edmonton. The Earl, however, shunned newspaper interviews and it is believed he left yesterday evening for Jasper Park. They were married here Wednesday in a quiet ceremony at St. Mary's Cathedral.

The father of the bride branded as "ridiculous" reports that steps were being taken to annul the marriage because of the age of the Earl who is only nineteen. Mr. Moodie said that although the Earl was only nineteen years of age his parents were dead and he had no legal guardian. There was nothing to prevent the Earl marrying if he wished to do so, Mr. Moodie maintained.

Mr. Moodie said there was an administrator of the Egmont estate in England, but that she was guardian of the Earl, who distinctly revealed this when applying for the marriage license.

The Countess of Egmont is a Canadian, born here nineteen years ago. Prior to her marriage she was employed as a dental nurse. She received her education at St. Anne's School, Red Deer, Alta., and St. Mary's High School, Calgary.

It is not known where the young couple will reside, following their honeymoon. The Earl may take his bride to his little ranch at Fridolia, Alta., near Calgary or reside in Calgary.

Canadian Press Cable

London, Sept. 2.—"I can hardly believe it is true—I never heard of the girl." This was the comment yesterday of E. H. Baxter, great-uncle of the Earl of Egmont, when informed the nineteen-year-old rancher peer had been married at Calgary Wednesday.

"My nephew's main interest in life only three weeks ago seemed to be riding at terrific speed on a high-powered motorcycle which he took with him from England," said Mr. Baxter, who lives at Salvington, near Worthing. "There was no hint of any engagement or marriage in a letter I received three weeks ago from his Canadian ranch."

"I was hoping," added Mr. Baxter, "that he would return to England and go to one of the universities, but I suppose that is out of the question now."

Beautiful Blooms and Creditable Children's Work Shown

Canadian Press

Calgary, Sept. 2.—The Esquimalt Women's Institute yesterday afternoon at the Parish Hall, St. Paul's Garrison Church, offered a fine display of late summer blooms, and though the entries were not so numerous as in some years the standard was high. Particularly admired was the prize-winning bowl of mixed flowers, the arrangement showing a very light and artistic handling. The gladioli and sweet pea classes were exquisite in variety of harmonizing color.

PRIZE WINNERS

The prizes were awarded as follows: Roses—1, Mrs. W. E. A. Barclay; 2, Mrs. Appleby.

Carnations—1, Mrs. W. E. A. Barclay; 2, Mrs. T. Cave.

Sweet peas—1, Mrs. W. E. A. Barclay; 2, Mrs. T. Cave.

REEVE'S CONGRATULATIONS

Reeve Albert Heald, who was introduced by Mrs. W. Grimes, president, opened the proceedings. He congratulated the members on their achievement and on the efforts made by them in community work. Two objects for which they had worked appeared to be near attainment, viz., the introduction of gas for cooking purposes and a practical playing field. Mrs. Heald was presented with a sheaf of beautiful flowers by little Claire Cresline.

Afternoon tea was daintily served by Mrs. A. Stewart, Mrs. N. Kennedy, Mrs. J. Roger and Mrs. J. N. Mathison.

A home-cooking stall was in charge of Mrs. N. Kelly and Mrs. Lock. Mrs. H. Cresline presided over the vegetable stall, Mrs. M. McDuff sold candies and Mrs. T. Bradley was responsible for the bran tub.

During the evening a house-house table was operated by Mrs. N. Kelly, Mrs. T. Cave was general convener, Mrs. G. Wise and Mrs. J. N. Mathison. The flower display, and Mrs. W. H. Booth was in charge of children's work. Mrs. Mason was at the receipt of customs.

A beautiful Christmas cake, made by Mrs. Lock, was won by Mrs. A. H. Hunter, Mrs. T. Bradley won the bag of apples and Mrs. Johnstone and Mrs. J. N. Mathison won the tomboola prizes.

The carmen of the James Bay Athletic Association will hold their annual Labor Day regatta dance on Monday evening at the Shiloh Auditorium from 9 until 1 o'clock. Good music is being arranged. At the Reformed Episcopal Church on Tuesday evening, Rev. A. de B. Owen officiated at the marriage of Dorothy, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Stanford of "Rockvine," Cadboro Bay, and Mr. Herbert Leslie Hooper, only son of a Seattle, Mr. H. P. Hooper, 3390 Cranmore Road.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a becoming angle-length flock of beige georgette, with lace and pink carnations. Her only attendant was Mrs. D. Fox in a pretty gown of salmon pink and a small matching hat, who carried a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. Pierre Tromp supported the groom. The church was prettily decorated with flowers, including an arch, the handiwork of Miss K. Williamson and the Misses Edna, Doris and Winnie Hooper. The ceremony was a reception was held at "Rockvine," Mrs. Stanford was assisted by Mrs. H. P. Hooper in receiving. Mr. and Mrs. Hooper left at midnight for Seattle, en route to Los Angeles, where the bride will spend a few days before returning to her home in Victoria.

The many beautiful gifts included a silver tea service and tray and a pair of silver vases from the staff of the Geographic branch at the Parliament Buildings, of which the groom is a member. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hooper and Miss Natalie Hooper, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hooper of Vancouver, were guests at the wedding.

Paris Lecturer To Speak Here On Cinematograph

Mme. Dreyfus-Barney of Paris, distinguished lecturer, will give a lecture in Victoria on Tuesday evening, September 27, on the subject, "Problems of the Cinematograph." There will be no admission charge, but a collection will be taken in aid of the Women's Workroom.

Madame Dreyfus-Barney is an experienced speaker and has made several journeys around the world to study the civilization of different peoples. She is American by birth and has always been connected with artistic and university circles. She has made a special study of international questions and after the World War, during which she took an active part in hospital services, she turned her activity to serve the constructive efforts being made towards better understanding between classes and peoples such as those undertaken by the League of Nations.

Among other things she is a Knight of the Legion of Honor, expert of the League of Nations, vice-president of the disarmament committee of the Women's International Organizations (formed by fourteen of the major organizations representing some forty-five millions of women), officer of the International Council of Women to International Institute of Intellectual Co-operation, president of the Committee of the International Council of Women, treasurer of the International Commission on the social and educational use of films and broadcasting.

FINE RECITAL AT CATHEDRAL

Mme. Norma Smythe, Saskatoon Soprano, and Stanley Bulley, Organist, Enjoyed

By G. J. D.

The Capital City never lags behind musically. Here in one week and on the threshold of another season, have been two important musical events. The first was the recital given by Mme. Norma Smythe, Saskatoon soprano, and Stanley Bulley, organist, at the Cathedral.

On this occasion Madame Norma Smythe, a well-known soprano of Saskatoon, appeared as soloist, contributing four arias, two of which have always been popular and are famous. "Rejoice Greatly" from "The Messiah," and "With Verdure Clad," from "The Creation," declared by Haydn to be his favorite of the whole work. The other arias were two from Bach's "St. John's Passion." Madame Smythe possesses a pure soprano voice of a most pleasing and dulcet quality. She gives the impression of schooling and much study, and with her good sense of proportion and understanding she can reach to greater heights. With her attainments she must not allow herself to be governed by consciousness.

STANLEY BULLEY
There is no question of the Cathedral organist's musical ability and school. His organ playing gives his hearers the satisfaction of knowing that they are being served with the very best of that instrument's resources, especially exemplified in his third group: (a) "Choral" (Honegger); (b) Stravinsky's "Requiem and Funeral" from his modernistic "Fire Bird" Suite; and (c) Alec. Roper's charming "Mood Fantasy." With its continual swarming chord effects. These are three contemporary composers and are evidently carefully grouped as such splendidly contrasting. Those who play Stravinsky know that his combinations of tones defy analysis. But Bulley managed the organ's "textures" imaginatively and with vivacity.

The opening number consisted of two parts of Handel's seldom heard "Overture to Justin." This was followed by the famous Belgian organist's celebrated "Choral in a Minor." Mr. Bulley evidently likes his Cesar Franck, for in this were beautiful phrasing, and a perception of the inwardness of the fine music. The Bach number, too, the "Prelude and Fugue" in B Minor, one of that great composer's in his whole fugues, was an excellent performance. The pedals and manuals had their significance in the music for which Bach knew so well to write.

Perhaps the magnus opus of the recital was the "Pantasia and Fugue" on the name of Bach, being B flat, A. C. B. natural, the concluding number. This is a tremendous, but always included number in the organist's repertoire, and here was Mr. Bulley on his mettle, and evinced a fine sense of color. The soft passages were delicately treated, and the unfolding of this rich, varied tone poem, ever sweeping onward to its brilliant climax, was a fitting conclusion to a fine performance.

SECRETS OF PICKLE-MAKING
Crisp, home-made pickles have a quality and deliciousness all their own and most housewives like to have a few jars in their preserve cupboard. The secret of pickle making lies in obtaining a correct bacterial action and preventing the bacterial action which causes spoilage and softening. Salt has been found to be the most efficient agent for this purpose and every recipe for pickles uses salt in some form in large amounts.

GHERKINS
Two quarts small cucumbers, 2 cups salt, 2 quarts boiling water, 2 quarts vinegar, 2 ounces mixed pickling spices, 2 teaspoons powdered alum, 2 cups brown sugar, 1/2 cup sliced horseradish root.

Choose very small cucumbers of uniform size. Be very careful not to bruise or mar the cucumbers. Wash carefully and pat dry between towels. Put into a deep crock and pour over brine made by dissolving salt in boiling water. Let stand twenty-four hours and drain off brine. Bring to the boiling point and pour over cucumbers. Let stand twenty-four hours. Drain and wipe cucumbers with boiling water in which alum has been dissolved and let stand six hours. Drain from alum water and rinse in clear water. Combine vinegar, sugar, spices and horseradish and let stand in the sealing point. Add cucumbers and simmer ten minutes. Pack in hot sterilized cans, pour over hot vinegar to cover, and seal.

CUCUMBER RINGS
Eight or ten six-inch cucumbers, 1 ounce stick cinnamon, 1 ounce whole cloves, 1 ounce whole allspice, 3 pounds brown sugar, 2 pints cider vinegar, 1 teaspoon powdered alum.

Make a strong brine as in preceding recipe. Wash and wipe cucumbers and let stand in brine for three days. Keep covered with a large plate. Drain cucumbers and let stand in clear water over night. Drain. Add alum to equal parts of vinegar and water and let cucumbers simmer in this solution for two hours. Drain and cool. Cut in slices not less than one-half inch thick and pack in a deep crock. Combine sugar, vinegar and spices and bring to the boiling point. Pour boiling hot over cucumbers and let stand over night. In the morning drain off vinegar, heat and pour back over cucumbers. Do this three times. The fourth morning pack cucumbers in sterilized cans, seal with vinegar and pour boiling hot over cucumbers. Seal and store in a dark cool place.

Chapter Reports
On Heather Day

At the monthly meeting of the Sir James and Lady Douglas Chapter I.O.D.E. a standing vote of sympathy was passed with Mrs. Hannah Wall, in the death of her husband, and with Mrs. W. J. Goepel, whose brother-in-law has recently passed away.

The report of Heather Day was brought in, the returns amounting to $127.47, the convenor for the day, Mrs. Walter Burton, who for the last eighteen years has given her untiring efforts in commemorating the departure of the First Contingent by the sale of Heather for the chapter, being given special thanks. Thanks were expressed to all who had sold Heather or helped in any way during the day.

The report of Municipal Chapter was brought in, and members were asked to support the garden party being given at Mrs. Hebbel Gillespie's home, 1808 Fairfield Road, on Tuesday, September 1, to assist the work of the Navy League, to whom colors are to be presented by the Council of Bessborough at 3 o'clock.

MRS. GEO. KIDD
IS BEREAVED

By Death Yesterday of Mother, Mrs. Mary Phair,
Nicola Pioneer

Canadian Press

Vancouver, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Mary Phair, wife of James Phair, pioneer Nicola rancher, died Thursday at the home of her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. George Kidd, Marine Drive.

She was born in Ireland in 1858 and came to this province with her husband fifty years ago. She had lived both in the Nicola Valley and on Vancouver Island.

Her husband and three children survive. Mrs. George Kidd, Mrs. Hartley Burroughs of Vancouver, and Harold Phair, who lives in the interior.

A private funeral will be held Saturday from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kidd, where Mr. and Mrs. Phair have resided for some time.

Norway House, Manitoba, was founded by a party of Norwegian settlers in 1814.

Horoscope

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 3, 1932

Conflicting planetary aspects are active today, according to astrology. Under this planetary government there may be confusion and uncertainty.

In the early morning all who exercise authority should benefit. Both men and women who belong to the most fortunate classes are under lucky stars.

This should be a fortunate day for persons who seek employment, if they concentrate attention and action before noon. While this configuration prevails the stars encourage criticism and even abuse of office-holders and other persons who are employed by the government.

It is not well to trust the judgment under this rule of the stars, for the habit of fault-finding may be encouraged.

Both men and women should analyze their own faults and shortcomings before arranging others for sins of omission or commission, astrologers declare.

There is an aspect to-day which is supposed to increase secret and to encourage double-dealing. Political aspirants should be on their guard.

Quarrels in organizations, feuds and faction fights may be numerous at this time. The average man is likely to be difficult to please.

The day should be fairly profitable to merchants, who will gain through novel and changeable views and unstable opinions.

Mark this day, in which others as well as others may find their luck and fortune. In the autumn months many men and women, from offices to factories, the power of expressing their thoughts.

Y.W.C.A. GARDEN
MUCH ADMIRER

At Delightful Tea Held in Annex Grounds Yesterday

When, owing to the present financial stringency, the Y.W.C.A. was forced to postpone its plan for the building of an addition to its present wing, the board of directors decided to transform the vacant lot acquired for the purpose into a garden. The result of their decision was greatly admired by a number of interested friends yesterday afternoon when the attractive garden thus made was the scene of an alfresco tea in aid of the "Y" funds for girls' work during the winter.

Late summer flowers in all their glory formed a border around the green lawn on which were arranged the quaintly appointed tea tables. Mrs. Arthur Walsh, the president, and Miss Marie McLeod, the secretary, welcomed the guests. Tea was served under the direction of Mrs. F. J. Morris and Mrs. J. A. Pearce. Mrs. J. A. Scott and Mrs. W. H. Whiteley had charge of the home cooking booth and Miss O. Checkley was responsible for the guessing contest. Miss Jean MacLaren and Miss Norma Macdonald sold delicious home-made candy, and Miss A. Paisley was at the Y.W.C.A. interest booth.

Tea-cup reading and fortunate telling were great attractions. The rug contest was won by Mrs. T. R. Bowden, and Miss McLeod was the winner of the large box of home-made sweets. During the afternoon the visitors availed themselves of the opportunity of visiting the annex, which has been newly painted and in which a well-equipped community kitchen has been installed for the use of the girls.

BOTTLE BABY MEETS SUGARS AND STARCHES EARLY

The bottle baby makes an early acquaintance with sugars and starches for his formula. There is only about half as much sugar in cow's milk as in breast milk, and all bottle formulas are imitative of the latter food. The addition of sugar furnishes baby with the heat and energy which he would get if he were fortunate enough to be nursed by his mother.

OFFER FRESH CEREAL
Cereal appears in baby's diet at about the fifth month. One teaspoonful of a smooth, well-cooked, rice-grained cereal is offered to baby twice daily, right along with his 10 o'clock nursing or bottle feeding. While this is a very small amount, it should be prepared fresh each day, as cold cereal takes on a stickiness and solidity which is unappetizing to the baby.

A recipe for this early cereal appears in my leaflet called, "Additional Foods in Baby's Diet the First Year." Mothers who are about to add cereal to baby's feeding may obtain this leaflet by sending me a self-addressed, stamped envelope with each request.

CAUTION, NOT DISLIKE

Babies have a rather natural distaste for new flavors and new textures of foods. Though this is just caution and should not be interpreted as dislike, it often makes the feeding of those few mouthfuls of cereal a rather difficult business. It is not easy to stay serene while baby placidly spits out every mouthful the mother offers. This, too, may be merely the result of baby's efforts to attack this thick food as if it were liquid. If the cereal is placed quite far back on baby's tongue, the swallowing of the food becomes automatic.

However indifferent baby is to this new food, it behooves the mother to be patient about it. A display of temper at his refusal to accept what is so good for him will tend to color his whole idea of cereal, as well as anything from a spoon. The mother who forces the cereal into his mouth with the grim determination that he shall swallow it, or she will know why, has only herself to blame when her subsequent approaches with a spoon are met with screams.

OTHER STARCHES

Zwieback, toast, bananas and baked potatoes are other starches to which baby may have an early introduction. When baby has his vegetable feeding at 2 p.m., he may be offered a small piece of zwieback in his hand. This will be rolled about in his mouth until soft enough to swallow.

Ripe, sliced banana can substitute for cooked cereals in the same amounts. It should be started in cautious teaspoonfuls, increase gradually until baby can take from one-half to a whole banana at a meal, along with bottle or breast feeding.

The banana is highly nutritious and easily digested. The bad reputation for indigestibility it once suffered arose because of the ease with which lumps of banana could be swallowed without proper chewing. Slicing the banana removes this obstacle to thorough mastication.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily and the Happy Bee

(By HOWARD R. GARIS)

Baby Bunty hopped to where Uncle Wiggily was standing in front of his hollow stump bungalow and said her little paw into the larger one of the old rabbit gentleman.

"Come on, Uncle Wiggily," laughed the little orphan bunny. "Let's go again!"

"Go where?" asked Mr. Longears, looking down at Bunty and twinkling his pink nose at her.

"Let's go see the sad bee again," suggested Baby Bunty. "I have thought of a way to make him happy."

"How?" asked Mr. Longears, thinking of how he and Bunty had met a bee, the day before, who was sad because after he had worked hard all summer to gather honey, he had to sit up in the winter when no flowers bloomed.

"I have made some sweet syrup of sugar and water," explained Bunty, showing a little pail she carried. "It will be almost like honey for the bee, and when I give it to him and he knows he doesn't need to eat up his own honey that he gathered, maybe he'll be happy."

"Maybe," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "But I think that bee, my little Bunty, would be sad anyhow. He seems to be that kind of a bug. However, we'll take him your sweet syrup and see what he says. Anyhow it may give us an adventure."

"I hope so," said the little orphan rabbit, dancing around on one leg and letting her ears flop from side to side. "Come on, let's hop and find the sad bee and try to make him happy."

"I'm with you!" shouted Uncle Wiggily just like a boy rabbit.

Together, he and Baby Bunty hopped over the fields, through the woods, up hill and down hill. They were hopping toward that part of the forest where, the day before, they had met the sad bee.

"I hope the old bee isn't around today," said Bunty.

"I hope the same," agreed Mr. Longears. For yesterday, when the bee said he was going to take some of the sad bee's honey, the bee stung the Bear on his nose and the Bear scattered sticks, stones and dirt on Uncle Wiggily and Bunty.

"Here's the place!" called Bunty as she saw a large, hollow tree. "Here's where we met the sad bee yesterday."

"I believe you're right," agreed Mr. Longears. "Look around and see if you can find the buzzing insect."

At that moment a buzzing sound was heard in the air and along came zooming a big, yellow chap who was singing and humming to himself.

"Hello, my friend!" called Uncle Wiggily. "You seem very jolly."

"I am!" buzzed the bee, and he whistled on his wings.

"We are looking for the sad bee," went on the bunny uncle.

"I have brought him a pail of sweet syrup," said Baby Bunty. "He can eat that and save his own honey. Where is the sad bee?"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the buzzing creature. "There is no longer any sad bee!"

"What's the matter? Did the bee catch him?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"No, thank goodness, that didn't happen," was the answer.

"Then where is the sad bee?" asked Bunty, anxiously.

"Right here!" buzzed the honey chap. "Look at me!"

"But you are a happy bee!" said the bunny gentleman.

"Yes, but I used to be the sad bee, only I've changed," was the reply. "After I stung the Bear and saw how he scattered dirt on you two rabbits, I got to thinking how foolish and silly I was to be sad because I had to eat in winter the honey I worked so hard to gather in the summer. Then, after you had left, I heard a cricket chirping in the grass. I said to him that he must be happy because he had lots of things stored away to live on in the winter."

"No," chirped the Cricket. "I haven't a thing to eat in the winter. We crickets never lay up any food. I probably shall starve when cold weather comes, but I'm going to be happy while I may. And so," said the bee, "I saw how foolish I was not to be happy when I had plenty to eat all winter. So I invited the Cricket to come and live in my honey tree and he is happy. I am happy, everybody is happy!"

"Good!" shouted Uncle Wiggily. Then he and Bunty did a little dance and the orphan rabbit gave the Happy Bee her pail of honey for the Cricket to eat and the Cricket was happy. And if the umbrella will give the cow a piece of rubber boot to chew on instead of gum, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's red plume.

PRINT! PRINT! PRINT WITH CARE—YOU HAVE TRAVELED EVERYWHERE

When Mrs. Bob started the question the other morning of "Where are we going to vacation, my dear?" Bob Grandon glanced coldly across the grapefruit to reply: "Why, to Earl Hays, of course. He'll fix us up wherever we want to go."

The wonder Mrs. Bob favored me with a couple of sniffs and several disdainful looks.

For Earl Hays . . . no relation to the Big Chief Will . . . could do exactly that at a minimum of expense . . . for Earl Hays is the man who furnishes the studios with all their trick inserts . . . as at the story of a murder on the front page of The New York Times? Is it a baggage check from a Vienna station for "Grand Hotel"? Hays will produce it at his print shop on Santa Monica.

Working as boy for a film company back in the old days, Hays, now in his early thirties, branched out for himself as close-up or "printed" matter came in vogue. He has a rare file of original tickets, menus, baggage checks, police blotters, steamer tickets, legal certificates, historical documents, and newspapers from all over the world, in every language and type. He also prints the fake money you see, and has a great call for out-of-date bills.

In printing a story, the page of the paper is reproduced with the desired article and art . . . furnished by the studio and printed prominently. If it is a foreign language story, it is first shown in the original and then dissolved into English. For this, Hays works with a translator. Of course, this entails a tremendous variety of type, which he is accumulating as demands require.

Quite an original job, that of Earl Hays . . . and one in which he is called upon continually, for most of the inserts in the current releases are his work.

Are you worried about your child's future? Robert Grandon's Horoscope leaflet may contain some good advice. Write for it enclosing 3 cents and a stamped, addressed envelope.

SIDE GLANCES

By George Clark

"I always ask myself, which one would Garbo be crazy about."

for LOVE or MONEY by H.W. CORLEY

"Why not? In the army the men used to shave and make themselves spic-and-span to go over the top, didn't they? We live in a jungle—though we don't call it that—but we make ourselves comfortable there. Have lots of servants. Barry and I always dress for dinner. We send to Haiti for clothing. And you should see the island we have in the Caribbean for holidays! When we're there we get inside suits from Haiti. We learned about the tailor from the captain of a cruiser. Our orders go over by one mail boat, and the suits come back on the return trip. Tailored to measure, too."

"Just as I'd shop in Herald Square if I lived on Long Island!" Mona exclaimed.

"Herald Square? Say—you'd shop on Fifty-seventh Street, Madison!"

They laughed together as if their talk was the most amusing in the world.

"Barry wanted me to ask if you and Lottie can't come up to Twilands for Sunday. He's going Friday and I can drive you and Lottie up Sunday morning if you'll come. We'd have a great time together."

"I'd love it!" Mona agreed, accepting for Lottie as well as herself. She knew that Lottie would be only too glad to throw over any other date she might have for such an invitation.

"Barry's uncle is out of town," Steve volunteered as if in answer to unspoken questions.

Mona smiled. "Yes, I know. He's at White Sulphur with Mr. Garretson. They're friends, you know. He stopped rather suddenly. Mona had just remembered that she and Barry had never mentioned to Steve the fact that they had met before Steve's introduction.

"So Garretson knows old Townsend, eh?" Steve said, without suspicion.

"Well, we can thank him for this day's invitation. It certainly wouldn't be much fun to visit Twilands if the old man were around."

"Don't he and Barry get along together?"

"Get along?" Steve eyed her. "Oh, so-so! It isn't the old man's fault, I suppose. It's his imagination. He thinks well, it's not exactly his imagination either. He's taking out on Barry the ill feelings he had for Barry's father and mother. Making their son pay what he owed them."

"Owed them?" Mona queried.

"Well, they played a rather mean trick on him, you must admit."

"Of course not. But his uncle can't forget it. That's the way of the world, my child."

It was agreed a little later that Steve should call for the two girls at about 10 o'clock Sunday morning, stopping first for Mona and then for Lottie.

"And if she's not ready we won't wait for her!" Steve had insisted. It was rather unusual that punishment for one of the virtues almost entirely foreign to Lottie.

The Morans were awake early Sunday morning. Kitty was to go to spend the day at Alice's as usual. Ma was making her weekly trip to the hospital to see her husband.

Kitty eyed her older sister rather approvingly. "You and Steve certainly make a nice-looking couple," she announced.

"You and Isabel have decided that, have you?" Mona interrupted the conversation, calling Kitty into the kitchen. A chicken for Dad was all ready roasting in the oven and fragrant hints of the bird's tenderness filled the air. Kitty was far from being in accord with arrangements for the day. She said the kids in Alice's neighborhood were "dumb." She would have to wheel the baby for an hour before she could settle down with the newspaper comic section. Kitty wanted to go to the hospital with her mother to see Dad. "Children aren't allowed and you know that, Kathleen Moran." Thus Ma disposed of the appeal briefly. "The doctors say, though, that Dad's getting better. Glory be to God!"

A few more tugs at her overcoats and Kitty was ready to go. She departed with remarks indicating that she found these visits to Alice's flat less and less agreeable.

Ma drew a basket from the closet and packed it lovingly. The baked chicken, fresh rolls, currant jelly, Dad's illness was such that his weekly basket a hand toward Mona, "I wouldn't rob you for the world!"

Steve started the car again and they plunged into the park. Past the mall, the pond, out again into 110th Street and finally, leaving the city behind, on to Westchester. Roads dipped and swayed toward . . . am. They drove through wooded plots, through brown fields. Here and there they ducked into villages, were delayed by straggling, dressed-up Sunday crowds.

Steve drove with his eyes on the road ahead, a speculative frown touching his forehead.

"This is glorious!" Lottie called to them.

Suddenly they reached a ridge, overlooking one of many broad, shallow valleys on the highway. A lacework of bare trees attempted to hide the village beyond, its few spires pricking into the sunshine like gleaming bayonets.

Further still, near the broad summit at the north, was an estate. On a terraced hill, above lawn and shruberies, there, lowered a huge house. A copy of a French chateau of the last century. A golf course had been laid out beyond the buildings. The terraced walls of tradition, years of culture and care. Mona could picture the small Barry straggling about that lawn in white rompers, swimming in the pool or jogging along the country road-side on his pony.

She thought of him returning here from school bringing his friends. At the time she and Steve had been swinging along Third Avenue on the backs of ice wagons, and being shoed from the neighbor's steps with their tops and jackets Barry had been living in this beautiful place.

"Barry should appreciate his good fortune," Lottie declared.

The fortunate young man met them just within the gate, emerging from the shrubbery as the car whirled inside. Steve jammed on the brakes swiftly. Barry was bare-headed, a dog nosing at his heels. He was dressed in heavy boots, riding breeches and a sweater that was not new.

"It's great to see you!" he exclaimed, springing on the running board and pushing the dog aside with one large brown hand. "Drive on, Steve. We'll have another breakfast if you can stand it. I've only had coffee. Then we'll take a tramp or something."

The car crossed the gravel stretch and halted under the porte cochere where Mrs. Faxon, the Townsends' housekeeper, met them, smiling. The girls understood at once that she was more than employee. In her twenty-five years of service Mrs. Faxon had been governess, secretary and now "hostess" was probably the word to express her position. As Steve put it

Unvarying Quality—Always

"SALADA" TEA

"Fresh from the Gardens"

later, she "ran the place" even when his uncle was there.

Barry introduced them, standing with his arm about Mrs. Faxon's shoulders. She was a charming woman, somewhat over fifty, with soft white hair and a face far younger than her years. Lottie, with great restraint, refrained from mentioning the rather obvious resemblance Mrs. Faxon bore to a motion picture duchess.

HIS WEIGHT WENT UP AND UP

Now He's Reducing Over 1 lb. a Week

More Active and Less Tired

All big men—and big women, too, for that matter—should read what this stout man has to tell them.

"I am only a smallish man, that is in height, but big the other way. I did not notice it much at first, but eventually it got to me. I was a great trouble to myself, getting so much heavier that I was tired by the time I'd walked 100 yards. I took advice and was told what to eat and what not to eat, leave this and that out, and although I followed the advice as closely as possible, I only got heavier.

"One day I saw in a paper something about the good that Kruschen Salts was doing for stout people. I bought some, followed instructions, and am pleased to say that I have reduced 5 lbs. in 4 weeks. I am more active and less tired—it has really done me good. If this letter is any good to you, you have my full permission to use same. I shall recommend Kruschen to everyone inclined to stoutness."

—J. H. B.

Unlike most salts, Kruschen is not merely a laxative. It is a combination of six salts which have a tonic influence upon every organ, gland, nerve and fibre of your body. Kruschen Salts keep the system free from encumbering waste matter. Unless this waste is regularly expelled, it will give rise to rheumatic and other body pains. And Nature is able to take the defensive measure of storing this poison-breeding material out of the way in the form of fatty tissue. Kruschen Salts is obtainable at all Drug Stores at 45c. and 75c. per bottle.

NEWS REPORTERS RECEIVE CHECK AS THEY SEEK TO BREAK DOWN TRADITION

Attempt to Interview Governor-General Is Blocked by Well-schooled Aides; Viscount Duncannon, Who Is Polite With Newspapers on Advice of His Distinguished Father, Diverted From His Intention by Zealous Secretary.

To the average observer, the extreme formality that invariably attends the movements of distinguished personages is appalling.

Doubtless, the principals concerned, if they considered their position from the viewpoint of the man on the street, would be inclined to resist the unnecessary restrictions that encompass them at all times.

Take, for instance, the Earl and Countess of Beasborough, who are seeing Victoria and the Island for the first time, and are eager to meet the people. The Governor-General is a most human individual. He is a business man of wide experience, and possesses a keen grasp of industrial affairs. He is interested in mines and railways, having been deputy chairman of DeBeers Consolidated Mines Limited of South Africa and chairman of the San Paulo Railway Limited of Brazil.

Both he and his charming consort, are leaders in the realm of the arts, as indicated by their association with the Little Theatre movement. Acting is their hobby. They have a fully-equipped theatre at Stanstead Park in England. The stage owes much to the Earl and Countess of Beasborough. Artists of acknowledged ability, they and the members of their family have taken leading roles in amateur theatricals with gay house parties from London and the tenantry of the estate forming critical audiences.

Viscount Duncannon, son and heir of Their Excellencies, who is also here to-day, has a bent for amateur theatricals.

Since he became Governor-General of Canada, the Earl of Beasborough, supported by his royal French wife, the former Roberts de Neufville, daughter of the late Baron Jean de Neufville, has sought to further the Little Theatre movement in this country. They believe that the Little Theatre, particularly in the smaller towns of Canada, would do much to improve community life.

It was with the object of obtaining further information on this phase of Their Excellencies' activities that newspaper men sought to obtain an interview.

It is not customary for Governors-General to give interviews for publication, for, as touched upon by His Excellency at the Canadian Club luncheon here, he is deterred by the nature of his office from making reference to matters that directly or indirectly might be considered controversial.

The subject of the Little Theatre movement was considered unbecomingly controversial by reporters as they sought to break down the shackles of tradition. They, however, unwittingly or otherwise, discovered they had committed a faux pas. Of course, the matter was not brought to the attention of the Governor-General, or things might have been different.

The newspapermen experienced a stumbling block when they telephoned Government House seeking an interview, and were referred to His Excellency's private secretary, A. F. Lascelles. It was out of the question. It was just not done.

"His Excellency has never given interviews in the east," therefore he cannot be expected to do so in the west," Mr. Lascelles politely, but definitely replied.

Unruffled by this rebuff the newspapermen repaired to the Empress Hotel, where the debonair and friendly Viscount Duncannon, and Robin Baring, his cousin, are quartered.

When the Governor-General's son visited Victoria last year, he was advised by his father to treat newspapermen considerably as the representatives of the public, and, interpreting this counsel literally, Viscount Duncannon gave at that time an interesting interview to the press here, in which he spoke largely of the family interest in amateur theatricals and the desire of the Governor-General to further the Little Theatre development in Canada. It was but natural, therefore, that the scribes turned to the genial Viscount on this occasion.

"Oh yes, I remember you!" was the greeting from the young Viscount over the telephone when the request was made for an interview. "Yes, you can come. I shall be free in about a quarter of an hour."

At the appointed time the reporters again communicated with the Viscount in his rooms through the medium of the house telephone authority. "I am so sorry," apologetically explained the Viscount. "I have just been in communication by telephone with Mr. Lascelles, and he informs me that it would be inadvisable for me to give interviews for publication."

A few minutes later, Viscount Duncannon, who smokes a pipe in preference to cigarettes, summoned out of the hotel in company with Mr. Baring, and climbed into a waiting car to take a drive in the city.

The counting spent most of the time together and are frequently to be found on the golf course or at a movie theatre, apparently preferring these diversions to the more formal round of public receptions and state functions.

CLOSELY WATCHED

The pleasure of this youthful pair is not interfered with by constant attendance of guards, as in the case of the Governor-General. The authorities take special precautions to assure the safety of the King's representative and the work is thoroughly done.

Special detachments of Royal Canadian Mounted Police are in the city co-operating with the provincial police. At Government House, while Their Excellencies are in residence there, red-coated policemen are to be found on duty at the gates and in the grounds. When the vice-regal party goes out the escort is still in evidence.

RELIEF COSTS SLOWLY DROP

Statement to Mayor Reveals Expenditures in Summer Are Less

Healthy reductions in Victoria's relief costs during the summer months are reflected in a financial statement of relief office disbursements submitted to Mayor Leeming yesterday morning.

The figures are taken as indicative of a general improvement in business conditions and a growing confidence among the public in economic betterment as they reveal not only a lessening of the relief burden but an increase in the amount of sustenance which many persons are able to provide for themselves.

The statement reveals relief disbursements for the first seven months of the year as $263,902, for both single and married men, this sum being met by contributions from the city, provincial and federal governments. It is split up into $207,896 for families and married men, and $56,006 for single men. July costs show a reduction of about $1,000 from those of June, and are decidedly lower than the costs for January, February and March.

Pocologan, New Brunswick, is said to be the only community in Canada having a clam shell road, crushed shells from a nearby clam cannery having been used over a period of years to provide an excellent surface on three miles of the Pundy Highway.

NATIVE SONS FLAY REPORT

Eight Kidd Committee Recommendations Condemned at Meeting Here

Resolution Expresses Surprise Business Men Should "Exhibit Such Pessimism"

Strong condemnation of eight recommendations of the Kidd committee was contained in a resolution adopted by Victoria Assembly No. 1, Native Sons of Canada, at a meeting in the New Thought Hall yesterday evening.

The members also expressed the opinion that in view of the short time spent by the committee in studying the province's problems, its knowledge could only be superficial and the government would be better guided by its departmental managers; that it was a matter of surprise a group of B.C. business men should "exhibit such pessimism," and that portions of the Kidd report reveal a "destructive sectionalism," and would delay the return of better times.

PROPOSALS CONDEMNED

In the preamble to the resolution, the following recommendations of the Kidd committee are specified for condemnation:

1. Free education only up to the thirteenth year.
2. Cost of normal schools to be borne by normal students.
3. Reduction of teachers' salaries.
4. Abandonment of University of British Columbia.
5. Temporary non-enforcement of Minimum Wage Act.
6. Sale of university lands.
7. Forced sale of Pacific Great Eastern Railway.
8. Reduction in civil service personnel and salaries.

TEXT OF RESOLUTION

The resolution proper reads as follows:

Be it resolved that as native-born Canadians who are vitally interested in the welfare of Canada, particularly of this province of which we are taxpayers, we, the members of Victoria Assembly No. 1, Native Sons of Canada, are of opinion that:

1. The recommendation for the curtailment of free education is suggesting "class" legislation and is an attempt to deprive the youths of British Columbia of their right to compete on equal terms with those from other places and to render them incapable of retaining a foothold in their own province and to force them into the ranks of the unskilled "drifters" and "floaters." It would not "keep the boys at home."

2. The recommendation that the entire cost of the normal school system be borne by the normal students is another evidence of the desire for "class" legislation and is an attempt to retain for the richer young men and women the most honorable profession of teaching.

3. The recommendation for the reduction of teachers' salaries if adopted, would drive from the teaching profession its most valuable members whose scholarship and leadership are needed in the development of the province and character training of our youth.

4. The recommendation for the practical abandonment of the University of British Columbia, if adopted, would, with one swift stroke, sweep away all chances of the financially handicapped student acquiring higher education in the liberal arts and sciences; it would render it necessary for the richer student to go elsewhere, with British Columbia money, to acquire higher training; it would create a condition which would necessitate the importation of skilled professionals rather than the training of British Columbia men and women to fill British Columbia positions and requirements. It would not "keep the boys at home."

5. The recommendation for the temporary non-enforcement of the Minimum Wage Act apparently bears a close relationship to the recommendation for curtailment of free education. Together, they would create the exploitation of child labor, which history proves, results in national decay.

6. The brightest light should be thrown on the suggestion that the university lands be sold. These lands, we understand, are adjacent to the province's largest city and have an enormous potential value. Their sale during a depression would bring "depression prices" which would be bargains for those in a position to take advantage of present conditions. The province would be the loser.

7. The forced sale of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway would, undoubtedly, place a heavy British Columbia public investment in the hands of a speculating group at a bargain price. However, we agree the problem of this railway is serious, but believe that the P.G.E. is a vital factor in the further development of the province and hope it will remain the property of the people.

8. A reduction in the personnel of the civil service would only aggravate the unemployment situation. It should be obvious to the members of the committee that the creation of unemployment will not create employment.

9. It is further resolved that, as the Kidd Committee study of the business methods, organization and departments of the British Columbia Government comprised only a few weeks, and, as the British Columbia Government is the biggest business in the province, it is our opinion that the knowledge acquired from this short course of study can only be a superficial one, and that the government would, if changes are contemplated, be better guided by the experience and training of its departmental managers.

SURPRISING PESSIMISM

Be it still further resolved that this assembly is surprised that a group of British Columbia business men should exhibit such pessimism and lack of vision and faith, and wonders if the present period of stress has not been created by this and other groups with similar opinion and outlook; also it is surprised at the absence from the report of any suggestions that would result in the provincial-wide resumption of commerce and employment.

Be it still further resolved that in our opinion, the portions of the report of the Kidd Committee to which we take exception exhibit a destructive sectionalism and will result in a further stirring up of sectionalism and controversy in our fair province and a delay in the return of better times.

COLLEGE COURSE FLOWER SHOW CHANGES MADE AT LANGFORD

Registrar Announces Changes in Curriculum

Announcement of changes in the curriculum were made yesterday by Professor Walter H. Gage, registrar of Victoria College. One subject has been dropped and will only be given in alternative years in future and another course, already being given in alternative years, will be included in this year's calendar. History II, Canadian History, will not be given for the 1932-33 session but will in future be given every other year. The additional courses to be given this year are Mathematics 4 and 18, descriptive astronomy.

Registrations this year will close Wednesday, September 21. Prof. Gage announced this morning, with lectures commencing on the following Monday, September 26. Up to to-day registrations of students have been coming in fairly well and almost 100 persons have signified that they will attend the institution this session.

Canada, which was held last evening was the opening one for the coming months following a cessation from meetings during the summer season. There was a large attendance at the meeting, which was presided over by First Vice-President Alexander Monleith. In the absence from the city of President Reginald Hayward, M.P.P.

FLOWER SHOW AT LANGFORD

The Langford district flower show was held on Wednesday in the Women's Institute Hall on Dunford Road, and was well attended, many visitors from Victoria, Laxton and Happy Valley and Langford Lake being present. John Noble and Mrs. J. D. Gordon judged the exhibits.

Mrs. P. N. Welch, president of the Women's Institute, welcomed the visitors. Prizes for essays on "Good Sportsmanship" were awarded to Rita Morrison of Colwood and Stella Hincks of Langford. The judges were Rev. H. S. Payne and Capt. W. J. Wagner.

Mrs. Gordon praised the quality in the women's exhibits and said the display of vegetables and fruit should prove a great advertisement for Langford district. Afternoon tea was served by the Misses Adeline Smith, Cecily Bennett and Connie Smith, supervised by Mrs. A. Moir and Mrs. R. J. Smith.

Ice cream was served by Mrs. H. A. Hincks. Tickets for a large quilt, embroidered by institute members, were sold by Molly Smith and Pamela Bennett. Health posters by Langford school children proved of interest.

The exhibits were arranged by Mrs. J. E. Macdonald, Mrs. Dan Malcolm and Miss L. M. A. Savory, assisted by Boy Scouts.

Wallflowers!

THE IDEA! CALLING US OLD-FASHIONED!!

Single-feature fuels are just what you don't want! Avoid them

POWER AND GETAWAY are entirely different things. And anti-knock is something else again. Don't be fooled any longer by one-feature gasolines.

Your motor needs three vital energies. Now try a fuel that gives you all three.

You want power? Shell 3-energy offers you all the power you've ever got from so-called "power fuels"!

But you also want the fastest pick-up possible, which calls for an entirely different kind of energy—quick energy. Shell 3-energy provides it, too. You can feel your motor's quicker response to the throttle. And you notice that your car even starts better.

And regarding anti-knock

You get more than vague promises in Shell

3-energy. In test after test in the laboratory, 3-energy scored the highest anti-knock octane rating of all the non-premium fuels! You can prove this result on any hill. See how much farther you go without a sign of engine strain.

That's the reason for Shell's booming sales this summer. There's a difference in 3-energy that people can notice.

Try a tankful of it today at any yellow and red pump. Shell service stations and Shell dealers.

Shell service men seal every station tank when they fill it with gasoline. Only authorized persons may remove the seal. Thus you know what you are getting when you buy from a Shell pump.

The energy you need in a hurry—for starts, shifts, bursts of speed

The power flow for miles of smooth, economical driving—pull without strain

Tests proved this gasoline higher in octane value than any other non-premium fuel

Reduces engine waste!

Eruptions Disfigured Face. Lasted 2 Years. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began with small pimples, a rash and blackheads appearing on my face. The pimples were hard, red and itched, also festered and scaled over. The irritation was so severe that I scratched and caused eruptions which disfigured my face. The trouble lasted two years.

"I read an advertisement advertising Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample of each. Later I purchased more and after using one box of Cuticura Ointment and two cakes of Cuticura Soap I was completely healed, in less than two months." (Signed) Miss Rose Walters, Chaplin, Sask.

Kid Chocolate In Knockout Victory

New York, Sept. 2.—Kid Chocolate, Cuban negro, holder of the junior lightweight championship, knocked out Frankie Marchese, New York, in the fourth round of a six-round bout at the Freeport Municipal Stadium yesterday evening. Chocolate's title was not at stake as Marchese came in a half pound over the class limit of 130 pounds. Chocolate scaled 128½ pounds.

A crowd of 4,000 saw the Cuban outclass his foe.

U.S. Football Star With Montreal Team

Montreal, Sept. 2.—Former captain of Syracuse University football team, Hal Baysinger, forward-passing ace, has joined the Dominion championship team of the Montreal Football Club, in training for the fall grid in the Interprovincial Rugby Union.

Baysinger is twenty-seven years of age, weighing about 170 pounds. The club hopes he will fill the gap left by the withdrawal of Warren Stevens, last year's mainstay of the team and now athletic director at Toronto University.

MINIATURE GUN GIVEN GOVERNOR

Nanaimo Extends Civic Welcome to Earl and Countess Bessborough

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, Sept. 2.—Hundreds of citizens gathered at the Cenotaph yesterday evening to welcome Their Excellencies, Earl and Countess Bessborough. The vice-regal party arrived at 5:45 o'clock and were met by Mayor Bessborough and members of the city council. His Worship tendered the city's welcome and the party then proceeded to the Cenotaph, where His Excellency placed a wreath in honor of departed comrades.

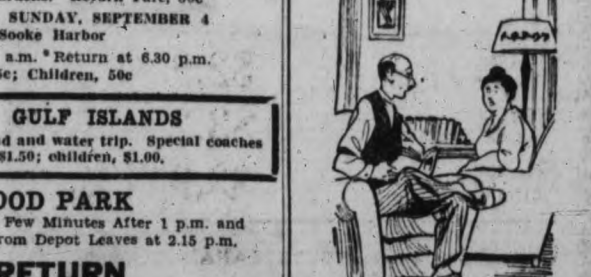

While the wreath was being placed, Boy Scouts dipped their flag, heads were bowed and the returned soldiers stood at attention while a short silence was observed. Following the ceremony the Governor-General inspected the returned men, Boy Scouts and Girl Guides.

His Worship Mayor Bessborough then presented His Excellency with a miniature cannon, a replica of the guns which stand at the historic Bastion, and which were used in the early fifties to repel attacks from Indians. The cannon was carved by A. S. Coburn from wood used in 1863 to build the Bastion. The Governor-General was also shown the monument commemorating the discovery of coal at Nanaimo.

Her Excellency was handed a corsage bouquet by Mrs. C. H. Barker, regent of Bastion Chapter I.O.E. and a photograph of the Bastion Fort. Miss Gladys Hindmarch, regent of Malaspina Chapter, presented her with a bouquet and Mrs. G. B. Brown, president of the Women's Canadian Club, presented Her Excellency with a copy of Miss Audrey Brown's poems. The arrangements for the reception were carried out by His Worship, Mayor John Bessborough and Mr. Coburn, president of the Canadian Legion. The party left for Qualicum amid cheers led by Mayor Bessborough.

CONAN DOYLE STORY HERE

Empire Theatre Will Show "The Sign of Four" With Great Cast; Opening To-day

An elaborate picturization of Conan Doyle's "The Sign of Four," prepared for the screen in response to rumblings which the ever-alert movie magpies interpret as a trend toward revived interest in detective thrillers, is the attraction at the Empire Theatre to-day.

"The Sign of Four" features in the role of Sherlock Holmes an actor whose talents on the stage have carried him to and from London and New York for various prominent plays—Arthur Wontner. As the leader of The Four, whom Holmes finally runs down, is Graham Scutcheon, whose impersonation of Jonathan Small has elicited the enthusiastic praise of the motion picture fraternity. The role of Mary Morstan is played by Isla Bevan, blond English beauty and one of London's most popular actresses. Ian Hunter plays the role of Dr. Watson—and what a world of satisfaction the doctor must find in that final scene when Holmes, in finding him embracing Mary, exclaims, "Amazing!" and Watson fires back at him Holmes's own favorite retort, "Elementary."

Edgar Morlok as Captain Mortstan, Herbert Lomas as Sholto and Gilbert Davis as Athelney Jones have the other important parts.

"The Sign of Four" is a World Wide Picture directed by Graham Cutts from a script prepared by W. P. Lipscomb.

DOMINION THEATRE

Phillips Holmes, Walter Huston, Ann Ha. Page, Lewis Stone and Jean Harlow head the impressive cast of "Night Court," which is being shown to-day at the Dominion Theatre.

Directed by the direction of W. S. Van Dyke, this picture offers one of the most sensational stories of political corruption ever presented on the screen. It focuses its attention upon a night court magistrate who, through his office to further his activities in the underworld.

Huston plays the unscrupulous jurist who presents a respectable side to the public but shows quite another to his nefarious associates. Holmes is seen as a taxi driver whose home is undermined by the machinations of the crooked magistrate and who ultimately brings the dishonest judge before his own bar of justice. Miss Page enacts the chauffeur's wife who is "framed" on a morals charge and sent to prison to seal her lips from judicial investigators.

ROMANO THEATRE

In "Alias The Doctor," the first National and Vitaphone picture which is at the Romano Theatre to-day, Richard Barthelmess, comes with what may be ranked as his finest portrayal. He plays a brilliant young surgeon who undergoes shame and imprisonment to shield a worthless foster brother.

It is a story of tremendous sweep and power, of thwarted love, supreme sacrifice and devotion. It gives Barthelmess an opportunity for emotional expression, such as no picture has quite afforded him since "Tolable David." And back of it all is a theme of undying love and romance that is finally unveiled in a happy surprise.

COLUMBIA THEATRE

Tom Mix in "The Texas Bad Man" is now at the Columbia Theatre. Tom Mix was a Texas Ranger. Now he's a honorary one. But once he won the lone star badge and still wears plenty of scars from this experience.

PEDEN PAIRED WITH L. RUSH

Two Victoria Riders Will Team Up in Vancouver Six-day Bike Grind

Vancouver, Sept. 2.—Reggie McNamara, the Australian veteran, and Reggie Fielding, the little Toronto boy, will be paired when the bike riders get off in the arena just after midnight on Sunday.

Making this announcement, Willie Spencer added that "Torchy" Peden had asked for had been given Lew Rush, Victoria, as his partner, so there will be a straight Victoria entry in the big race. Spencer said there would be a Vancouver entry also in Jimmy and Harold Davies, who will do the only brother act of the ten competing teams.

During the race there will be five series of sprints daily. Each of these will be over a two-mile route, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, at 7 and 11:30 in the evening and at 1:30 in the morning.

The jama, when a rider suddenly takes it into his head to lap the field and the riders rush off madly in pursuit of him, are not tabulated. This may happen at any time a rider is feeling "perky" or when one man more alert than his fellows decides to start something.

McNamara and Fielding will rate as a strong team, although the limbs of the gallant McNamara do not carry him as stoutly as of yore, he is still a great six-day rider and a wonderful finisher. Fielding, while small in stature, has proved his mettle in many a nerve-racking six-day race in the dying hours when the riders are approaching exhaustion and the ultimate in sheer fatigue.

THREE BOYS BAG COUGAR

Three boys shot a seven foot male cougar at Shirley on Wednesday afternoon, after an exciting chase through dense brush. The animal was rounding up sheep within fifty yards of the farmhouse of Edwin Clark, when the disturbance attracted the attention of Earl Clark, a young boy, who drove the cougar away. Stanley Clark, an older boy, took up the chase with a rifle and dog, being joined by Sturdee Arden, a neighbor boy.

Many sheep and goats have recently been slaughtered by cougars in this district. Farmers are extremely discouraged and report that cougars are fast increasing in numbers since the abolition of the bounty.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Guy Kibbee, who is "running for governor" in "The Dark Horse," a First National picture, now playing at the Capitol Theatre, has a number of exact dummies of himself that are used in the picture. One of these has taken home to keep. He wants to put it in front of the window so the neighbors will think he stays at home nights.

David Manners, in the Warner Bros. comedy classic, "Stranger in Town," is also at the Capitol with "Chic" Sale and Ann Dvorak.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

Off-stage noises, the bane of all producing companies, did not matter in the filming of "The Deceiver," the Columbia mystery drama, showing to-day at the Playhouse Theatre. As a matter of fact, the noises of theatre carpenters, electricians and stagehands were carefully reproduced for the drama, which has a backstage locale. Ian Keith, Dorothy Sebastian, Lloyd Hughes, Natalie Moorhead, Richard Tucker and Greta Grandsted are featured. It was directed by Louis King.

COMING TO DOMINION

Arthur, Julius, Leonard and Herbert Marx are four of the best-known comedians in the world.
They are known as Harpo, Groucho, Chico and Zeppo, respectively. Collectively they are the Four Marx Brothers, and "Horse Feathers," their latest picture will show at the Dominion Theatre beginning to-morrow.

It was in Galesburg, Ill., that Arthur, Julius and Leonard suddenly became Harpo, Groucho and Chico.
Art Fisher, one of vaudeville's leading monologists, was playing poker with them after the show one night. He gave them the titles—Groucho, because Julius always looked so serious; Harpo, because Arthur always strummed the harp; and Chico, because Leonard's ability to dispose of fried chicken was well known.

The fourth Marx Brother at the time was Milton, who retired during the war and was succeeded by Herbert. Milton was named Gummo, because he always wore rubbers, then called "gum boots." And Herbert, when he took Gummo's place, took the title Zeppo.

THANK BUREAU FOR COURTESY

New contacts made by publicity bureau to Victoria were outlined and thanks for courtesies extended to other visitors were conveyed in letters read to the directors of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau at their luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce to-day.

Some of the messages came from members of the Puget Sound Travel Directors' Association who visited the city, thirty strong, over the week-end. Will Hay, noted radio announcer of Chicago, who spent a few hours here some weeks ago, also voiced his appreciation of the courtesies shown him, and stated, in his letter, he had spoken of the scenic attractions of Victoria, British Columbia, to his friends in a recent address over the air.

Dr. J. S. Plaskett wrote to thank the bureau for its co-operation in entertaining outstanding astronomers who came to the city some weeks ago.

SEEK LOWER FERRY RATES

The Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau will again approach the C.P.R. Steamship Company to seek lower ferry rates between Victoria and Vancouver and Seattle as the result of action taken by the directors at their luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce to-day.

R. H. Ker brought up the matter, noting that so far the bureau had met with little success in this direction. But, he added, the excursion held by the transportation company this year proved the public's willingness to travel providing fares were lower.

It would benefit both the transportation company and the public if the rates were reduced, since the increase in travel would more than compensate for the cut in fares, he said.

Arrangements will be made shortly for a conference with the C.P.R. officials.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Upwards of thirty cases will be waiting for hearing in the County Court here when Judge Lampman opens the fall session of the court next Tuesday morning. The first session will be devoted to setting dates for the trials of these cases.

Reduction in the scale of mothers' pensions received no support from the Saanich Council yesterday evening. A resolution from Duncan city council, which advocated such a policy, with restriction of pensions to British subjects and disqualification of Orientals, was ordered filed.

Members of the Canadian Club will hear Sir Philip Cunliffe - Lister, K.C.B., M.C., M.P., Secretary of State for the Colonies, speak on "The Imperial Conference and After" at their dinner meeting in the Empress Hotel to-morrow evening. The dinner will start at 6:30 o'clock.

R. S. Ketching, Cadboro Bay, was treated for slight head injuries following a collision between his car and a truck driven by W. J. Barnes, 317 Simcoe Street, and George Mellor, 319 Broad Street, at the intersection of Quadra and Broughton Streets yesterday afternoon. Mr. Ketching was riding with Mr. Barnes.

The following donations were received by F. Landsberg, the local treasurer, Save the Children and Near East Relief funds, for the month of August, 1932: Miss Macklem $1.50, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Croft $2.00, E. J. 81.50, E. B. 1.00, Mrs. J. H. Croft $1.00. Further donations will be gratefully acknowledged by Mr. Landsberg at 1008 Broad Street.

The provincial voters' list in Saanich now includes 5,354 names, after completion of two weeks' work by the eighteen enumerators. W. O. Wallace, superintendent of the registration, stated this morning that "hundreds of new names have already been added to the list. He expressed conviction that earlier estimates of the total enrolment in Saanich would be substantially exceeded.

Lieut. Desmond Turner of the Royal Canadian Air Force arrived here this week to spend his annual leave with his mother, Mrs. I. Turner, 131 Olive Street. Lieut. Turner, who has lived in Victoria most of his life, being educated here, joined the R.C.A.F. some years ago and is now considered one of the crack fliers at the Camp Borden post of the force.

Judge Lampman in July freed Chan Sun on an option charge brought by Mounted Police investigators who had found opium dross in his cabin at Esquimalt. The judge agreed with the argument of Joseph B. Clearhue, Esq., the lawyer, that dross did not come under the opium and Narcotics Act as "opium smoked." R. A. Woolton, prosecutor, has started action to appeal to the Court of Appeal against the judge's decision.

The Knox Presbyterian Young People's Society held a beach party Monday evening at Macaulay Point, having a corn-cob and wienie roast which was greatly enjoyed by over thirty members and friends. Next Monday being Labor Day, the regular weekly meeting of the church has been cancelled. The executive is making plans for a hike. On September 12 there will be a special business meeting of the society to make plans and get the programme ready for the winter season.

Advices received from J. R. Munro, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, attending the National Advisory Council on Agricultural Services in Toronto, state that Hon. Robert Weir, Federal Minister of Agriculture, will call a meeting of the Veterinary Council this winter to take up the matter of duplicating services by Federal and provincial departments. It is hoped that the meeting will result in a clearer definition of the duties of each department without overlapping. Mr. Munro reports he is attending conference on dairy herd improvement and poultry and range committees.

The Masonic Order in Golden has its enterprise in erecting a new temple at a time when general building activities are slack. The cornerstones were laid on Saturday with due ceremony by M.W. Grand Master J. H. DeWitt, assisted by R.W. Deputy Grand Master W. J. McRae, Golden, and R.W. Grand Master George Sanborn, government agent of the same place. Among other holding office for the occasion were: M.W. Grand Secretary W. A. De Wolfe-Smith, West Westminster, and M.W. Grand Treasurer P. J. Burd, Vancouver; also J. C. Pitts of Windermere, a charter member of Mountain Lodge No. 11, A.F. and A.M., when his home was at the now defunct town of Donald, B.C.; W. H. Cleland of Invermere, and Walter Sadler of Field, the present master. The ceremony was witnessed by a large crowd including friends of the order from different parts of British Columbia and many tourists.

All new students who intend entering Victoria High School and who have not already registered through their elementary schools and all repeaters must register by Saturday, September 3. The High School office will be open for this purpose on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, from 9 to 12.

SHOTS SEEN BY DAUGHTER

Amy Cawley Unwittingly Got Rifle With Which Father Killed Self

That Amy Cawley, young daughter of Roger Brian Cawley, Albert Head rancher, saw her father level a .22 calibre rifle at his forehead and shoot himself was determined at the coroner's inquest in Hayward's Bay. The coroner's inquest in the Royal Jubilee Hospital.

Mrs. Cawley said her husband had been in bad health for three weeks and for several days before his death had been confined to bed. He had been unable to sleep and had asked her to buy some sleeping tablets. This she did last Monday. That night and early the following morning he had taken eight of them with little benefit and had seemed worse on Tuesday.

At 8 o'clock Tuesday evening he had asked his wife for the rifle. Mrs. Cawley testified. She took it away and hid it on the veranda. She then went to make up his bed while he entered his children's room to talk to them.

According to the testimony of Amy Cawley, the dead man then came into the veranda to get the rifle and went out to sit on the couch while she got it from the veranda. When she gave him the rifle he said: "Thanks, that's what I want; now you go to bed."

The young girl went into her bedroom and as usual left the door open. Looking back when she got into bed she saw her father level the rifle at his head. In a steady voice he wished his children the best of luck and pulled the trigger.

Mrs. Cawley then came running in and did her best to staunch the flow of blood while her daughter ran to the home of the nearest neighbor, Alan Georgeon, who also testified at the inquest.

There were slight powder burns around the small bullet hole in the middle of the forehead, said Dr. Thomas McPherson, who was called to the Albert Head home and later attended the case in the hospital.

FUNERAL IS HELD

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Charles Grimwood, Rev. A. B. Owen officiating. The service was held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Newberry, C. W. Newberry, R. L. Adamson and C. C. Penberthy. The remains were laid to rest in the family plot at Ross Bay Cemetery.

PASTOR'S SON DIES SUDDENLY

Gordon Switzer Succumbs in Regina; Was Here Only Two Weeks Ago

Rev. J. C. Switzer, pastor of Centennial United Church, and Mrs. Switzer, received the sad news yesterday that their only son, Gordon, had passed away very suddenly in Regina. A very large circle of friends in Victoria and Vancouver will sympathize with them at this time in their great loss.

Gordon Switzer was a very widely known throughout British Columbia, being very active in Young People's work of the United Church. For three years he was a member of the Older Boys' Parliament, representing groups of the lower mainland.

Shortly after graduating from the University of British Columbia in 1929, he left to take a position with the Breen Motor Co. of Winnipeg. It was not long before his many qualities and business abilities were recognized, and he was transferred to Regina as manager of the company's branch in that city. Mr. Switzer was only twenty-three years of age, a man of splendid character, and outstanding executive ability. He had spent his holidays with his parents here in Victoria, very recently, and attended the service at which his brother, Rev. Gerald B. Switzer, M.A., Ph.D., was inducted as pastor of the Church of the Holy Trinity in Regina, leaving the following day for his place of business in Regina. His sudden passing has come as a great shock to a wide circle of friends.

Birthday Greetings Are Extended To-day To—

* G. H. GARDINER

George Hepburn Gardiner, postmaster of Victoria, is celebrating his birthday today. Mr. Gardiner was born at Forfar, Scotland, in 1882, and received his education there in the North Burgh School and Forfar Academy. From 1897 until 1904 he served in the Forfar Post Office Department and in the Post Office Department at Winnipeg from 1904 until 1914. In April, 1914, he joined the department in Victoria. He acted as postmaster from the time of Mr. Shakespeare's retirement until the appointment of H. Bishop, when he became assistant postmaster, which position he held until 1927. On February 1, 1928, he was appointed postmaster to succeed Mr. Bishop, and has held the position ever since. He is a keen football fan and has played for the Hudson's Bay soccer squad for several seasons. He is an active church worker and is treasurer of the Oak Bay United Church. He lives at 1273 Hampshire Road.

SAYS HISTORY IS REPEATING

Long Unrest Has Followed Fall of Every Dynasty in China, J. H. McCann Claims

Kwangsi Province Is Communist and Issues Money With Lenin's Profile

J. H. McCann of Tientsin, who has been in business in the Orient for thirty-four years and who arrived here to-day by the Empress of Russia, says history is repeating itself in China.

After the fall of every dynasty, he said, there had been periods of unrest, in some cases extending over a long period of years. He believes that China is experiencing her darkest hour and the end to her troubles is not yet in sight.

The Nanking Government is unable to cope with the situation, and Communism is on the increase. The central province of Kwangsi, he said, was wholly communist and paper money was being issued carrying the profile of Lenin and Marx.

MERCHANT WOULD TRADE

While the boycott is being vigorously prosecuted by the politicians against the Japanese, the Chinese merchant is not in favor of it, stated Mr. McCann. Considerable trading is going on and Japanese ships are regularly arriving and clearing with goods at Tientsin and other ports.

The boat on which Mr. McCann sailed from Tientsin carried 800 tons of raw cotton to be manufactured in Japan. Practically all the Chinese imports from Japan are manufactured goods.

RELIEF POST STILL VACANT

Hon. R. W. Bruhn Denies Major Fordham, Vancouver, Is Director

"Announcement yesterday in Vancouver that Major John G. Fordham has been appointed to-day to the directorship of the relief post in British Columbia is incorrect. No appointment has been made and none is expected to be made immediately," Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, stated this afternoon. "I shall be glad to have the Vancouver report flatly contradicted," he added.

Mr. Bruhn's statement was made after a prolonged conference with Major Fordham, at which it is understood the well-known Vancouver man consistently refused to accept the directorship of the relief post. A large number of financial resources adequate to the relief problem facing the province.

Major Fordham has earned a reputation as an administrator by his successful organization of billets for unemployed and needy ex-service men in Vancouver. One of his outstanding efforts is the huge building on Powell street, where more than 300 men have their headquarters under a mild discipline.

For most of the two hours required by Mr. Bruhn to explain the government's position to Major Fordham, the latter was a tenant of a seat in the minister's lobby. He was later given two minutes in which to assure the minister of the importance of selecting for the directorship a man of experience in administration of relief.

Pictures of City Gain Prominence

Publicity gained by the city through the medium of splendid views of some of the attractive spots within its confines and environs, sent out by the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, were outlined to-day to the directors of the bureau at their luncheon in the Chamber of Commerce by George I. Warren, commissioner.

The Bureau's former had used a fine scene from Butchart's Gardens as a cover for its latest issue, while the Shanghai Times has used pictures and publicity matter sent it by the bureau. The Montreal Standard had published some of the same and the company were using other views in a big illustrated calendar, he said.

X-RAY GROWS IN USEFULNESS

Many New Avenues of Service Studied, Says California Visitor

Use of the X-ray is usually associated with the practice of surgery and medicine but it has many other uses and its range of service is being continually widened. Prof. Ray Wood of Hollywood, California, who is spending a holiday on Vancouver Island with Mrs. Wood and their children, commented in the course of an interview to-day.

Prof. Wood is making a study of the application of X-ray to newer fields and predicts that in the near future X-ray will be used to a far greater extent in the industrial world than it is to-day.

Paying a tribute to the martyrs of X-ray who lost limbs through the penetrating rays when application of X-ray was in its early stages, Prof. Wood recalled that was less than thirty years ago yet to-day X-ray is handled with perfect safety.

"Should the same progress in discovering new uses for X-ray be maintained for the next quarter of a century its usefulness will extend to scores of new avenues," he remarked.

"How X-ray can help metallurgists, metallurgists and geologists is being closely studied and it will soon prove essential in building construction for the examination of foundations and building materials," the professor said.

Professor Wood and Mrs. Wood who have just completed a fishing tour of the Island reported success in landing good catches at Campbell River and Cowichan.

The southern part of Vancouver Island is the most wonderful country I have ever visited," remarked Mrs. Wood. "It's green pastoral valleys in striking contrast to some of the sun-dried areas through which we have travelled. We intend to come to Vancouver Island direct and stay longer next summer."

Native Daughter Of Nanaimo Dies Here

At the Jubilee Hospital this morning, the death occurred of Reita Grace Adams, wife of George H. Adams, Scott Apartments, aged thirty-eight years. Mrs. Adams was born in Nanaimo and had been a resident of this city for three and a half years and is survived by her husband and three children, George, Audrey and Lois-Jane. New World Speedboat Record Expected In Series

Boats of Kaye Don And Gar Wood Ready For Test To-morrow

Two Famous Pilots Will Meet in Opening Heat of Harmsworth Trophy Competition on New Lake St. Clair Course Early To-morrow Morning; Present Record of 89.13 Miles an Hour Is Certain to Go by Boards; Don Predicts Top Speed of 117 Miles for His 4,400-horsepower Miss England III

Detroit, Sept. 2.—The two fleetest hydroplanes afloat were receiving their final grooming to-day for the renewal of the Harmsworth Trophy race shortly after sunrise to-morrow.

Kaye Don, British challenger for the symbol of speedboat supremacy, was in seclusion while last-minute adjustments were made to Miss England III, holder of the world record of 119.89 miles an hour and the craft with which Don hopes to take the trophy back home.

Gar Wood, who has weathered six previous challenges since he brought the Plaque to the United States in 1920, hoped to make his first run over the new Lake St. Clair course with Miss America X during the day.

EXPECT NEW RECORD
No one doubts that, barring misfortune, the Harmsworth record of 89.13 miles per hour established in the first heat last year by Don in Miss England II, will be shattered by the speedier boats, racing over a faster course.

Don estimates the maximum speed of his 4,400-horsepower craft can produce with the fuel available at around 117 miles an hour.

Wood has refused to predict the miles per hour his 6,400-horsepower monster will develop, but the consensus of race followers, based on engineering formulae, is that Miss America X has a potential speed of between 120 and 125 miles an hour. She is Wood's only entry this year.

The starting hour, 6:30 a.m., eastern daylight time, 2:30 a.m. Victoria time, was chosen to make smooth water most probable.

Don brought out Miss England III yesterday in rough water for his final tryout, and found the going hard as he bounced around the course at about a ninety-mile-an-hour clip. Wood, declaring the course was too rough, sent his Miss America X down the smoother channel of the Detroit River at an estimated speed of 100 miles an hour.

NAVY TRIO TO SEEK TITLES

Led by "Chuck" McDonald, British Columbia mile champion, three Canadian navy track stars, will seek Vancouver Island championships in the meet at Nanaimo on Monday. The other two men, G. Williams and G. Bamfield, have shown plenty of speed in workouts, and should be strong threats for the laurels in the Labor Day meet up-Island. McDonald is conceded a victory in his chosen event.

BALL SERIES WILL RESUME

Green Mill and Sons of Canada Continue Senior Baseball Play-off To-night

To-night at the Royal Athletic Park the Green Mill and Sons of Canada will resume their battle for the city senior amateur baseball championship. In the opening game of the best four out of seven series on Wednesday evening the cafemen hung up a 2 to 0 victory. To-night's game will get under way at 5:30 o'clock.

Jack Noble, Roy Haines or Ray Parfitt will take the mound for the Sons, while the Green Mill can call on Leo Holden, Bill Brousseau or Bill Holmes. Should Holden pitch it will be his third performance this week. It was announced to-day that the teams will play to-morrow afternoon starting at 3 o'clock. Two games are scheduled on Labor Day, starting at 10:30 a.m. and 3 p.m.

FAVOR ROBBINS FOR BIKE RACE

Victoria's Canadian Olympic Rider Conceded Good Chance to Win Penwill Race

Glen Robbins, Victoria, Canadian Olympic bike rider, still reigned favorite for honors in the special Penwill Cup ten-mile race at Beacon Hill on Monday, when the entries for the event were released by George Robinson late yesterday.

Five Victorians and four Vancouverites were scheduled to go in quest of the fine trophy, presented by the B.E.A. cycleworks. Ken Lambert, Stan Johnson, Morris Robinson and W. Rippell were the mainlanders' hopes, while the capital was looking to George Farmer, Bev Peden, Harold Whitehead and Clifford Robbins as well as Glen to take the feature awards.

TWENTY-TWO RIDERS
Twenty-two riders in all were listed to try for the four different trophies up for competition in the meet, which includes two British Columbia championships.

The complete entry list to date follows:
One-mile British Columbia junior championship—Claude Peden, Doug Peden, Jim Yates, Gerald Vantreigh, Garfield Robbins, Stan Johnson, Charlie Warren.

One-mile British Columbia championship, open—George Farmer, Ken Lambert (Vancouver), Bev Peden, Glen Robbins, Stan Johnson (Vancouver), Morris Robinson (Vancouver), W. Rippell (Vancouver).

One-mile handicap, boys under fifteen—Ken Reid, Doug Vantreigh, Clifford Robbins, Garfield Warren, Howard Meyer.

Two-mile handicap, boys under eighteen—Claude Peden, Doug Peden, Jim Yates, Gerald Vantreigh, Garfield Robbins, Stan Johnson (Vancouver), Stan Johnson, Harold Whitehead, Bill Morrison, Charlie Warren, George Robinson.

Ten-mile cup race—George Farmer, Ken Lambert (Vancouver), Bev Peden, Glen Robbins, Garfield Robbins, Stan Johnson (Vancouver), Harold Whitehead, Morris Robinson (Vancouver), W. Rippell (Vancouver).

Gledhill and Vines Capture Net Honors

South Orange, N.J., Sept. 2.—Keith Gledhill and Ellsworth Vines Jr., United States doubles champions, defeated Gregory Mangin and Sidney Wood Jr., 6-4, 6-4, in the final match of the east-west tennis series yesterday to give the western squad victory by the margin of five matches to four in the two-day play.

Needing victory to clinch the team title, the Coast pair played masterful tennis to turn back Wood and Mangin. Each set the scores went to 4-all, when Vines cut loose with his cannonball returns from back court and smashes at the net to win with apparent ease.

Vines previously had defeated Wood in singles, 6-2, 4-6, 8-6, and Gledhill had won from Mangin, 6-3, 7-5, to bring the western team from behind and make victory possible.

Vancouver Cricket Line-up Announced

Vancouver, Sept. 2.—A representative team from the Vancouver Wednesday Cricket League will visit Victoria on Monday, Labor Day, for a return game with the Capital City midweek eleven. The following players will represent the Vancouver league: A. Smith, H. O. Cornett, K. Strickland, P. Ward, A. Robinson, J. Cool, A. Coles, H. Warren, W. Hendy, J. Cornett Jr., G. O. Coles and A. Bell Jr. E. Williams will accompany the team as scorer and A. Hinson as umpire.

U.S. Golfers Gain Handsome Lead In Walker Cup Series

Combination of Veterans and Youngsters Take All Four Foursomes From British Contingent in Opening Play of International Series; Play Eight Singles To-day; John de Forest and Tony Torrance, British Captain, Beaten 6 and 5 by Gus Moreland and Charley Seaver

Brookline, Mass., Sept. 2.—The freshmen of United States amateur golf came through with flying colors yesterday in their first test under international fire, with the result the United States defeated Great Britain's challengers in all four of the thirty-six hole foursomes, making up the first day's engagement of the Walker Cup battle.

There were no competitive thrills outside of one flashing rally put on in vain by the British juveniles, twenty-two-year-old Eric McKivie and Eric Fiddian, in a sensational match with Don Moe, Oregon, and Billy Howell, Virginia.

Howell and Moe, in the final match of the day, stopped their rivals, 5 and 4, with a rally of their own on the homeward nine, after a lapse in which the American boys dropped five out of six successive holes.

Captain Francis Ouimet, being any doubts about the state of his health, combined with young George T. Dunlap Jr., New York, former intercollegiate champion, to administer a 7 and 6 defeat to the Anglo-Irish combination of John Stout and John Burke.

VETERANS WIN EASILY
The veteran "lead-off" team of George Voigt and Jess Sweetser, New York, after a fairly close tussle a good part of the way, came out in the afternoon to shake off the Hartley brothers, Rex and List, and won by 7 and 6.

The biggest jolt to the invaders was posted when their crack combination of John de Forest, British champion, Tony Torrance, captain of the team, fell before the sun of two new comers to the competition, Gus Moreland, Dallas, and Charley Seaver, Los Angeles. Fortified by a rush that gave

Daily Double Pays Off At $803 For $2

Red Nan Suddenly Returns to Form and Completes Record Double For B.C.

Favorites in Betting Are Beaten in Every Race at Colwood Oval

Featured by the record price of $803.20 returned by the daily double when Gaberdine snatched a nose decision in the second and Red Nan suddenly awoke to win the third, yesterday's race card at Colwood track unfolded a string of surprises from start to finish.

Although the daily double figures outshone everything else for sensations, the win prices in all races were attractive with only two winners showing less than double figures.

Not a single public choice in the betting reached the wire in first position, but practically all were in the first three.

The main race of the day, a sprint over the six-furlong route, attracted a fast field. The winner, C. E. Griffith's Double Chin, ran the three-quarters in 1:12 4-5, a record time for the track this meet, and only four-fifths slower than the track record for the distance, held jointly by Bowcroft, Simony and Forebee. Nelda W. closed with a terrific rush for the place and Zeina M. got the show.

Mrs. R. Johnson's Dale Showers out-finished the heavy favorite, Jim Rogan, to win the opening canter over the six-furlong route. Belle Somers charged through on the rail for the third slot.

Jim Audain's Gaberdine won the second in a driving finish from Hindu Jim, bearing the red silks of R. Congdon, Star Boat, the favorite, was third. Red Nan, W. Buck's chestnut mare, which has apparently had some difficulty getting into shape, plunged through on the rail under a hustling ride by Hayward to win the third and hang up the second daily double price.

The winner paid $28.60 straight, the longest win price of the day. Skoll was second and Ethel F. third.

Palace pilot Machushia II home ahead of a slow field in the distance, giving George H. Powell his second victory of the week. The winner was a five-to-one shot. Cervaze was a good second and Plenty Money, the favorite, showed.

Under a well-judged ride by Jockey Hayward, Jimmie Trinz won comfortably in the sixth from Extension and coupled with him in the one-two bet which paid $9.00. Fanny Fasterton seemingly "dropped from the clouds" for the show.

In a thrilling neck-and-neck finish Harry Bow's Hanc got the call in the seventh from George Small's Meta Frances. Skootin, the favorite for this event, broke slowly and despite a determined bid on the back stretch could not get to the top. Fanny Way finished strongly for the show.

Riding honors for the day went to Spotti, Palace, and Hayward, who rode two winners apiece, and Laboyne who piloted Double Chin to victory.

RESULTS
First race—Claiming, purse $200; for western Canadian-bred horses; five and one-half furlongs.
Dale Showers (Sport).....$9.50 $2.85 $2.30
Jim Rogan (Hayward).....2.40
Belle Somers (Robertson).....2.40
Also ran: Star Crescent, Calgary Jubilee, Lord Goldstar and Golden Flower, Time, 1:07 3-5.
Second race—Claiming, purse $200; for three-year-olds and older; six furlongs.

"I Paid For It" Says Fortunate Double Winner

E. H. T. Baeschlin, Who Won $803.20 on Record-priced Bet, Had Purchased $30 Worth of Tickets; Has Had Tough Luck Before in Just Missing Big Returns,

A tall dark man, dressed in a light grey suit and wearing a smart straw hat, sauntered up to a betting booth at Colwood race track yesterday and purchased fifteen tickets on the "daily double."

After the third race, he walked back again, holder of the only ticket which coupled the horses Gaberdine and Red Nan. The ticket was worth $803.20, a record price for B.C. tracks. He calmly collected the $803.20 and walked away looking for another winner.

His name was E. H. T. Baeschlin of Vancouver, Swiss consul in that city. "No, don't congratulate me," was the first thing he said when approached by a Times reporter, "I've paid for this already."

Mr. Baeschlin explained he had plotted out fifteen different combinations of horses from the second to the third race, and had played them all, $30 worth. His win was not so much luck as science.

"Take for instance, yesterday," he said, "I played $50 worth of tickets on the double and then I never got it. You see it doesn't always work."

But the did not stop Mr. Baeschlin from being the man of the day at the race track. He was probably the biggest winner anyway.

Mr. Baeschlin explained that while playing the horses he often buys a large number of tickets on the double in the hope of collecting a long price. On one occasion in Vancouver, he did the same thing, and after his first horse won he stood to get a return of over $2,000 for his ticket if the second horse came home on top. The horse, incidentally, was second choice in the betting, but it failed to make the grade for him. Another time, the first horse in one of his combinations ran first and he stood to win more than $700 if the next horse won, it was beaten by a nose.

"Yes, sir. You have to take the good with the bad on a race track," he said, looking over his big nose to pick out the next winner.

Virtues of Being Noble, Educated, Sweet and Kind Are Passed Over by Men Seeking Wives Shrewish Female Slave-Drivers Corral the Choice Thoroughbreds on the Matrimonial Ranges

THE MOST discouraging thing about being a woman is that our virtues are our greatest handicaps. We collect no dividends on our good qualities. All that we get for being sweet and pure and unselfish and noble is the reward of a clear conscience.

Men don't love us and marry us, which is what we all want most in life, because we are pin-feathered angels, but because we have large violet eyes or are blondes built on streamline effects. The wives who have the most adoring husbands are never the patient Griseldes, but female Simon Legrees who work them to death to provide them with pearls and limousines and trips to Europe. We can even do our duty to our husbands without the danger of losing them to some woman who will treat 'em rough.

And that is what makes us mothers sigh and tear our hair in bewilderment when we look at our little daughters in the cradle and wonder how we should develop them so that they may get the most out of life. Shall we bring them up to be meek and modest? Well, the shrinking violet doesn't get anywhere these days. We haven't noticed any men going out of their way to hunt up the hidden flower to wear in their buttonholes. The one they plucked was the one that planted herself right in their pathways and bumped them in the nose.

Shall we teach them to be domestic and thrifty so that they can make their husbands comfortable and save their money? Well, observation shows that it is not mother's little helper who gets the Fairy Prince but the best rumba dancer, and the maiden who catches the masculine eye is not the one who wears home-made clothes, but she who looks like a daily hint from Paris.

Shall we give our daughters a fine education? Any little moron who hasn't two ideas in her head to rub together can marry three times to a college graduate's once and, generally speaking, the less a girl knows, the more attractive she is to men.

Look about you. Who are the popular girls? Who are the girls who always have dates to burn? Who are the girls who get married in their first or second season, and who have their pick of the eligibles? Are they the girls who are best fitted to make good wives and helpmates? Are they the girls who are noted for their sweet and amiable dispositions? Are they the self-sacrificing maidens who make over their old frocks so mother can have a new dress, and who help take care of their little brothers and sisters? Are they the highbrows who can discourse about the Einstein theory and the splitting up of the atom?

Nay, verily. The girls who are fitted to make the best wives never get to be wives at all. All of us know dozens of lovely, gentle old maids who can cook like a chef and pinch pennies like Hetty Green, who are witty and entertaining and would have spoiled husbands to death, yet who have been passed over by men for lazy, extravagant, stupid little shrews who have happened to have peaches-and-cream complexions and naturally wavy hair.

Of course, we are all awfully proud when our daughters develop into splendid characters, and we boast about it when they are fine students and carry off the honors at college, but well we know that their moral and mental superiority isn't going to help them in any getting good husbands. If they are good-looking, they may be able to live down a reputation for brilliancy, or if they are supernaturally clever they may have sense enough to conceal it, but the fact remains that men prefer feminine brains scrambled, and there is no arguing with taste. The only consolation the intellectual woman gets is that she is good company for herself, and that's lucky, for it is most of the society she has.

Nor does a wife get any more percentage on her virtues than does a girl, so far as men are concerned. The best wives are rarely the best loved ones. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred it is the exacting, demanding, gimme wives whose husbands grovel before them and kiss their feet.

Take the adoring wife who simply hasn't a thought of herself where her husband is concerned. She considers it a privilege to make a burnt offering of herself on the kitchen stove preparing the dishes he likes best. She stays at home with the children so he may go off on pleasure trips, free and untrammelled. Her whole life is a perpetual sacrifice of her tastes, inclinations and desires for him.

Does he in return simply worship this self-abnegating saint? Not a bit of it. He comes to think of her as nothing but a doormat and kicks her around like one. He doesn't in the least appreciate what she does for him. He thinks that she is an eccentric who doesn't care to go to places of amusement and have pretty clothes, as other women do.

And there is the woman who is a real helpmeet to her husband. Very often she has more intelligence, more ambition, more vision than he has, and she makes her shoulders a ladder on which he climbs to success. Does he repay her by eternal gratitude and devotion? Sometimes. Not very often. Frequently he deserts her for a young woman who hasn't got callouses on her hands and a stoop in her back from pushing him on.

We have all seen plenty of old wives pensioned off on a little alimony while the second wife blew in the money they helped to make. Often it seems nowadays that the only way a wife can keep her husband is by keeping him so poor he doesn't attract the gold-diggers.

So this is why it is so discouraging to be a woman. You never know when you are trying to be a good wife whether you aren't doing the very thing that is going to lose you your husband. And so often your wisdom turns into just plain dumb foolishness.

Exploring the Solar System

IX—ON TO MERCURY

There is no moon going around Venus. If you and I went to the planet to live it would seem strange to have no moon in the sky.

Mercury compared with North America

It is my personal fancy that Venus is now in the dinosaur age. In ages to come, the thick clouds around the planet may cool and drop to the surface as rain. Such an event would cause great commotion on the planet.

Our next visit is to Mercury, the swiftest-moving of all the planets. It was named after Mercury, the Roman messenger god who was supposed to have wings on his sandals and on his hat. Even with those wings, the messenger god could not have moved so rapidly as the planet.

The planet Mercury speeds around the sun at the rate of twenty-nine miles per second. It makes a complete journey in eighty-eight of the days we count on earth.

Mercury has a diameter of 3,030 miles. It is larger than the moon which goes around the earth, but it is not nearly so large as the planet Venus.

So far as is known Mercury is closest to the sun of all the planets. Several years ago, an astronomer believed that he spied a planet closer to the sun; but his discovery has not been confirmed. If there is any such planet, it must be very, very small.

"I say 'close,' but I am speaking in comparison with other planets. Mercury is 36,000,000 miles from the sun, and that is a greater distance than I should like to walk.

"What would it be like if we should land on Mercury?" you ask.

"I think we should find it a very 'jumpy' place. When we started to lift our feet to walk around, we should find ourselves stepping very high. The gravity at the surface of Mercury is only one-third as great as the gravity of the earth. The same effort which would lift a high-jumper six feet above the earth would lift him eighteen feet if he were on Mercury. We could easily break all Olympic records on Mercury.

"Astronomers are in doubt about many facts concerning this little planet. Some of them believe that one side of Mercury is always facing the sun."

DEMAND SOVIET REMOVE TROOPS

Harbin, Manchuria, Sept. 2.—The new state of Manchukuo has appointed an ambassador to represent it in Tokyo. Bao Kwang Jen, mayor of Harbin, was chosen for the post.

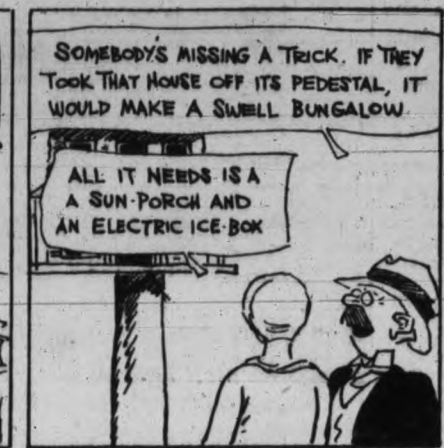

In a note sent to Soviet Russia, Manchukuo demanded the creation of a neutral zone along the frontier in order that clashes might be avoided. The note also called on the Soviet Government to dismantle all its military structures within the territory of Manchukuo and to withdraw its troops within its own borders.

Manchukuo authorities asserted Soviet troops had taken up positions near Manchukuo. The Russian Government denied any such invasion took place, but Manchukuo replied that Soviet troops were clearly visible from the Manchukuo station.
